THE NURSING PREPARATION -- Ollie May White award, was presented to Miss Mickey Bass, by Mrs. Mildred Robinson, bioloby teacher I and II, today at honors assembly at Sikeston high school field house.

Sikeston Students Receive 24 Awards

Awards for outstanding work were presented to 24 Sikeston students during honors ceremonies held at the Field House this morning.

The awards and recipients were:

Jodie Graff -- Business and Professional Woman's Club Art Award.

Leslie Johnson -- Sikeston Public Library English Four Award.

Betty Powers -- Daughters of the American Revolution Award for American History.

Mary Ann Sappenfield -- C. L. Blanton Sr. Outstanding Journalism Award.

Leslie Johnson and Gay Goehie -- Sikeston Community Teachers Scholarships. ($250).

Linda Brewer -- Girl making most progress in music during year. Robert Hazel -- Boy making most progress in music during year.

Debbie Collins -- Phi Beta Mu, National Honorary Band Directors Fraternity.

Betty Powers -- Outstanding Senior in Future Business Leaders of America.

Grady Jones -- Library Service Award.

Bruce Barnes -- New Forensic League Traveling Trophy.

Mickie Sue Bass -- Ollie May White Award for Nursing Preparation.

Steven Counts -- J. Edward White Award in Science.

Marsha Hixon and Terry Bryant -- Lions Club Citizenship Awards.

Donna Wheeler -- Outstanding Member for Girls Intramurals.

Phyllis Ford, -- Coalesce Club Homemaking Award.

Bob Lambert and Nancy Turner -- American Legion Good Citizenship awards.

Dennis Snelling and Art Jackson -- American Legion Outstanding Athlete awards.

Bruce Farris -- J. Hershel Tyer Football Scholarship Fund.

Fred Towns -- Bill C. Ryan Scholarship Fund.

Betty Powers -- Potlatch Forests Foundation Scholarship ($300.).

Astronauts in Good Shape

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 10 moved flawlessly toward its moon destination today with only two minor complaints from the crew—dull thuds that interrupted their night's sleep and water chlorine that burned their mouths.

Despite the interruptions caused by periodic bursts from their small rockets the astronauts reported "We had a real great night's sleep."

About two hours after they began their sleep cycle, following Sunday's precise and hitchless launching, the astronauts complained mildly about the noise made by the rockets that slowly rotate the spacecraft. They worried about fuel consumption.

But on awakening after about 10 hours Air Force Col. Thomas P. Stafford reported "All three of us feel great."

Navy Cmdr. Eugene Cernan said the thruster noise sounded "just like a minor pulse, just vibration."

Stafford and Cernan were awake a half hour ahead of schedule, but Navy Cmdr. John A. Young slept out the distance.

The astronauts began their day by giving a global weather report from their vantage point 107,000 miles above the earth.

They complained about the chlorine in their water supply and Stafford said: "The water is absolutely horrible. I got a horrible slug of chlorine. My mouth is still burning. John did too. I just want to put that on the record."

Before they retired, the Apollo 10 crew argued mildly with the ground about the necessity for rechlorinating the supply, but lost the argument. Ground controllers, after studying the problem, admitted today they had given the astronauts the wrong procedure for the rechlorination and that apparently a large concentration of the purifier had collected in the bottom of the tank.

The controllers told the astronauts to "open the potable tank inlet and take a bag and draw off a bag full of water—get rid of the chlorine concentration."

"We have your horoscopes for you," said capsule communicator Bruce McCandless. Then he and fellow astronaut Charles Duke began reading them.

"Tom, you have to concentrate mainly on finishing things that are already started," Duke told Stafford, a Virgo, "line up your plans; take inventory. The pace of the day should be moderate."

Cernan, a Pisces, was told to "make sure your home and workplace are free of hazards. Give thought to your driving and work habits. Do something nice for somebody you care about."

And for Young, a Libra, the message was "Take advantage of a relatively slow day to get a better perspective on your job. Look around, ask some questions and think about the answers from various angles."

Sunday's launch was accomplished with a precision and nonchalance unimagined when America first ventured into space eight years ago.

The spacecraft's television cameras took earthlings along as sightseers as they moved smoothly on their pathfinding mission for the landing of the first humans on the moon, scheduled for July.

It went like the script said: the launch of the Saturn 5 rocket, the insertion in orbit, the separation of spacecraft from booster rocket, the spacecraft's somersault—then its return to the booster to pluck out the lunar lander.

A ground controller said it was like a taped replay of earthbound practice sessions.

"That's all it is, babe," said Cernan.

Until Wednesday, when Apollo 10 nears the moon after hurtling 251,307 miles, its crew has relatively little to do.

The experiments that made this flight look easy were perfected step-by-step, mission-by-mission in America's 19 space trips beginning with Alan B. Shepard's 15 minute, 22 second flight May 5, 1961.

As the bullet-shaped ship sped from earth's grasp, hooked nose-to-nose with the ungainly space taxi that will take Stafford and Cernan close to the moon's surface Wednesday, its crewmen found time to share their exploits with TV viewers on the ground—and to exult over the sights.

Instead of transmitting only 15 minutes as planned, the color cameras went on four times for a total of 72 minutes.

The earth, partly swaddled in clouds and glowing brilliant blue and brown against the black velvet of space, prompted Cernan to exclaim:

"You blink your eyes and look out there; and you know it's three dimensional. But it's just sitting out there in the middle of nowhere. It's unbelievable."

Then he said:

"Just for the record, it looks like a pretty nice place to live"

Before they retired for the night, Stafford commented, "Sounds like we'll soon be 55,000 miles out."

"That's right," said mission control.

"Sounds like a long way from home, Joe," Stafford replied.

"That's right," said astronaut Joe Engle, the communicator on the night shift. "You guys covered a lot of ground today."

While they slept, their spacecraft traveled another 36,000 miles—slowing constantly from the 24,293 miles an hour that enabled it to leave earth's grasp.

The Apollo 10 crew was easily the chattiest to date.

At 3:34 p.m. Wednesday, the spacecraft begins circling the moon— duplicating the feat performed for the first time during the Christmastime flight of Apollo 8.

But Thursday morning at 10:30 a.m., if everything goes right, Stafford and Cernan will crawl through the nose of their spacecraft into the lunar lander.

Three hours later, Stafford and Cernan will cut the spiderlike craft from the mother ship and dip down to within 9.3 miles of the moon's surface in man's closest approach to another celestial body.

Viet Hill Battle Costly

DONG APBIA, Vietnam (AP) — The paratroopers came down from the mountain, their shirts dark green with sweat, their weapons gone, their bandages stained brown and red. With mud and blood.

Many cursed Lt. Col. Weldon Honeycutt, the hard-nosed battalion commander who sent three companies Sunday to take this 3,000-foot mountain just over a mile east of Laos and overlooking the shell-pocked A Shau Valley.

They failed and they uffered.

"That damn Black Jack won't stop unless he kills every damn one of us," said one of the 40 to 50 101st Airborne Division troopers who was wounded.

At least 10 died on the hill.

Honeycutt, 38, of Columbus, Ga., had been given an order: Take the mountain. It had been steadily pounded since May 10 by artillery, riot gas and more than 70 air strikes. It is believed to contain a North Vietnamese regimental headquarters and a supply cache.

By Sunday, the mountaintop was almost bare, its heavy jungle cover blasted apart by artillery, rockets, bombs and napalm. But still visible were the bunkers. They looked like evenly-spaced shell depressions.

U.S. intelligence said Sunday morning the mountain was held by "two companies, plus." In the afternoon, Honeycutt revised it upwards to two battalions that had infiltrated and reinforced the mountain stronghold Saturday night.

Since May 13 his battalion had suffered heavy casualties assaulting Dong Ap Bia—about 35 killed and some 180 wounded seriously enough to be evacuated.

As of Sunday, the mountain had been ground-assaulted 10 times by the 3rd Battalion, 187th Infantry.

The paratroopers had made it to the top three times, and three times intense enemy fire drove them back.

Spec. 4 Anthony Toll, 20, of Nashville, Ind., had made nine of those assaults against Dong Ap Bia, and the dark-haired, slender veteran of eight months in Vietnam was bitter.

"After all these air and artillery strikes, those gooks are still in there fighting. All of us are wondering why they just can't pull back and B52 that hill," he said.

"I've lost a lot of buddies up there. Not many guys can take it much longer."

Why take the hill?

"Well, for one thing, it overlooks a good deal of the A Shau Valley," said Honeycutt. "For another, you pull back and Charlie sure as hell will follow you right down and hit you."

Why do the North Vietnamese defend it so strongly?

"I can't say for sure. I wish I could," said the division commander, Maj. Gen. Melvin Zais. He said one option open to him was to back off and "bring in more firepower.

"But you hate to give up the ground you've gained." he added. "You'll have to fight just as hard to retake it. Backing off is one thing that commanders hate to do."

What about a massive B52 strike on Dong Ap Bia?

"Look, those gooks aren't stupid," said one intelligence officer. "They know exactly how much damage an arc light (B52 raid) does, how deep the bombs blow.

"They build their bunkers to withstand that. That's what they've done out there."

And possibly for that reason —to root out the enemy—the men of Honeycutt's battalion were sent up Sunday for their 10th assault against enemy bunkers, claymore mines, rocket-propelled grenades and a hail of bullets.

"Damn it, Cyclone Six, get those men spread out. They're all clustered up. You're getting paid to fight this war, not discuss it," Honeycutt snapped over the radio at one company commander working his men up a ridgeline.

Honeycutt was standing in a small clearing about 1,000 yards and slightly below Don Ap Bia's scarred crest. Small arms fire crackled continuously, punctuated by artillery shells and the buzzsaw of minigun fire from helicopter gunships.

F100 Supersabre Jets and two Vietnamese pro-driven Skyraiders bombed and strafed the mountain.

"We're running low on ammo," a company commander radioed down from the hill. "We're not making much headway."

Later, the wounded began trickling back from one side of the hill in twos and threes. One boy had his face two thirds covered by a bandage and blood ran off from his chin.

Another staggered in, his shirt off and a bloody bandage on his shoulder.

Then, as it always does during the afternoon in the A Shau Valley, a hard rain began to fall.

War Prisoner Release Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird called upon Hanoi today for prompt release of all American servicemen now held in North Vietnamese prison camps.

Failing this, Laird said the North Vietnamese government should at least provide for humane treatment for the several hundred Americans currently locked up in North Vietnamese camps.

"The North Vietnamese have claimed that they are treating our men humanely," the defense chief said. "I am distressed by the fact that there is clear evidence that this is not the case."

Laird said that by next month more than 200 American servicemen will have been listed either as prisoners of war or as missing in action for more than 3 1/2 years.

"This period of time is longer than any U.S. serviceman was held prisoner during World War II," he stated.

Appropriation Bills Cut

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Sen. J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville, Senate appropriations chairman, said today his committee finished cutting House passed appropriation bills over the weekend.

He said the total amount of the cuts had not been determined but the bills would be ready for presentation when the senate meets late today. Patterson was busy rechecking the figures this morning.

Patterson said he was not sure the bills would be taken up for debate today. That process is expected to be lengthy because of the numerous changes made by the Senate committee.

Lightning Causes Fire

Firemen were called 4:32 p.m. yesterday to extinguish flames in an air conditioner at 825 Lake Street. The fire apparently started from lightning. The fire was contained and minor damage was reported. It was at the residence of Harold Depro.

Final Concert Tomorrow

The Sikeston High School Music Department will present its final performance of the school year at 8 p.m. Tuesday. The Music Review, which has become a traditional concert through the years, will feature the two Concert Choirs, directed by Gordon Beaver, the High School Orchestra, directed by Richard Powell, and the two concert bands, under the direction of Keith Collins.

Each organization will present several numbers, and the final number will feature all the organizations massed together for the great Festival Number, MARCH OF FREEDOM, by Myrow. This finale number has also become the traditional ending for this annual program and will provide a thrilling finish for the musical school year.

The concert will be on the Outdoor Stage at the Music Building. In case of inclement weather the program will be held in the Field House.

One Killed, Seven Injured in Three-Vehicle Crash on 61

OLD APPLETON - Mack Rayford, 52, St. Louis, was killed last night in a three - vehicle crash four miles south of Old Appleton on Highway 61.

The Highway Patrol reported the tragedy occurred when Michael M. Jones, 24, St. Louis, was attempting to pass Rayford. Both cars were traveling north. The Jones car apparently ran headon into a south-bound 1967 GMC bus belonging to the Cape - St. Louis buslines. The bus was driven by James McIntosh, 46, Cape Girardeau. The Jones car, a 1965 Mercury, veered to the left after striking the bus and smashed into the Rayford car, a 1967 Mercury. Rayford was pronounced dead at the scene.

There was five passengers injured on the bus. None were believed serious. The only person from this area injured on the bus was Ruth Eifert, Scott City, right shoulder and possible back injuries.

Millie Rayford, 51, passenger in the deceased's auto, received possible internal injuries. Marva Jones, 22, passenger in Jones car, St. Louis, was severely cut on the left arm.

The patrol said Jones will be charged. The charge was not specified. Jones was not injured.

Dennis S. Montgomery, 33, St. Louis, was killed in a two-car crash Saturday afternoon on Highway 34 in Wayne County, Montgomery was a passenger in a car being driven west by Elby Kirk Jr., 35, St. Louis. The Kirk car, the patrol said, ran off the pavement several times at a high rate of speed and then slammed into a truck being driven east by Wayne Pichon, 18, Piedmont.

In an accident late Saturday afternoon on Interstate 57 west of Sikeston at the junction of route 105, Brenda Cathy, 20, Sikeston, received minor injuries. She was treated at the Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

The patrol said the accident occurred when Mrs. Cathy's husband, John Cathy, 19, was attempting to turn on Route 105 from I-57. Their car was struck by a car driven by Bernell LaPlant, East Prairie. Russell Stewart, Benton, a passenger in the Cathy car, also received minor injuries. The accident occurred about 6:45 p.m. Saturday.

Police Report 10 Arrests

Police this morning reported 10 persons were charged with offenses during the weekend.

Jimmy S. Staggs, 948 Lake, was charged with public intoxication, illegal possession of intoxicants and destroying city property.

John H. Hooper, Bertrand, was charged with drinking in public and littering.

Other persons arrested were James E. Wren Jr., 237 Watson, public intoxication; Greg A. Myer, 313 Virginia, careless and imprudent driving; Evelyn C. Hunter, 709 Mitchell, driving while intoxicated; Randall H. Hooe, Painton, careless and imprudent driving; Greg P. Harrington, 204 Felker, assault, W. D. Simmons, Matthews, public intoxication; W. D. Warren, Hazel Green, Ala., careless and imprudent driving, and James E. Robinson, 230 Felker, assault.

Live Color Earth Shots Treat for TV Viewers

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP)—The blue and white disc bobbed in the black vastness of space as an astronaut focused the camera. A zoom lens pulled the image closed, then pushed it away.

It was man's first live, full color television view of home as seen from outer space.

The three Apollo 10 astronauts surged nearer the moon with another color television broadcast on schedule for 4:04 p.m. EDT.

Space Center spokesmen said either the earth or moon might be televised and that more than one broadcast was possible.

Apollo 10 Commander Thomas P. Stafford had said before Sunday's liftoff that he and fellow astronauts John W. Young and Eugene A. Cernan would telecast from space whenever time allowed.

The spacemen beamed back three shows for a total of 72 minutes air time Sunday, including two unscheduled "specials" of earth.

They caught commercial TV off guard on the second bonus broadcast and appeared only on closed-circuit televison at Mission Control. It included a closeup view of the spaceship interior—so close that viewers could count the stars and stripes on the tiny American flag stitched to Young's sleeve.

The view from space was, as astronaut Cernan put it, "unbelievable."

First came remarkably clear views of Snoopy, the moon machine that will take two of the three men on man's closest inspection trip of the moon.

Colors during the first space view ranged from brilliant orange to steel gray. In one closeup, tiny numerals on Snoopy could be read with ease.

Then came the great show, man's first live, color view of his home planet from a spaceship speeding through space at 20,000 m.p.h.

"You know, you blink your eyes and look out there, and you know it's three dimensional, but it's just sitting out there in the middle of nowhere. It's unbelievable," Cernan reported.

The black emptiness of space —Cernan called it the "blackest black that you ever did see"— provided a backdrop to the earth's cloud-swathed continents and oceans.

The spacemen scanned the globe and reported on its wonders—the browns and greens of continents, the blues of the oceans, clouds like cotton candy.

"We see the Rocky mountains sticking out ... Can't tell if you have any smog in L.A. (Los Angeles) or not. But Alaska is pretty much socked in," one astronaut said.

They spotted the North Pole, Texas and Oklahoma.

Court Refuses Remap Review

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today refused to reconsider its April 7 decision rejecting Missouri's congressional redistricting. The court said nothing beyond noting that the petition for a rehearing was denied.

On May 2 Missouri Atty.Gen. John C. Danforth asked the court consider a "fresh look at the case."

Court Ruling Seriously Damages Marijuana Laws

WASHINGTON (AP) —The Supreme Court unanimously threw out today conviction of Timothy F. Leary, noted drug experimenter, on a finding that compliance with federal marijuana laws would violate his protection against self-incrimination.

The ruling, given by Justice John Marshall Harlan, seriously damaged—perhaps fatally—the marijuana laws.

The court reasoned that compliance with their provisions would expose Leary and others in the same situation to prosecution under state marijuana laws.

The decision follows the same reasoning the court used last year to riddle federal laws requiring gamblers to buy tax stamps and certain firearm possessors to register with the government.

The resignation of Abe Fortas last week from the high court had no effect on this important 8-0 ruling.

In other actions today, the court:

—Made it easier for stockholders to file damage suits charging corporation officials with fraud by refusing to review a lower court ruling that officials filing false or misleading statements may be liable for damages even when there is no evidence the statements were made to affect trading on the market.

—Refused to review a California Supreme Court decision that a topless entertainment act was protected by the U.S. Constitution as a form of expression. A lower court had ruled the act constituted indecent exposure and lewd and dissolute conduct in public.

Leary was convicted in 1966 of bringing about half an ounce of marijuana into the United States from Mexico. He was sentenced to from 5 to 30 years in prison.

His appeal attacked three federal laws that, while they did not make use of marijuana a federal crime, make supervision possible through a system of import controls and taxation.

The three laws make it a crime to (1) transport illegally imported marijuana knowing that the marijuana had been imported illegally, (2) transport marijuana without having paid a transfer tax and (3) acquire marijuana without having paid the transfer tax.

Harlan, speaking for the court, said once Leary acquired marijuana "He was confronted with a statute which on its face permitted him to acquire the drug legally, provided he paid the $100-per-ounce transfer tax and gave incriminating information, and simultaneously with a system of regulations which, according to the government, prohibited him from acquiring marijuana under any conditions."

Harlan said Leary "had ample reason to fear" that if he identified himself to the government as one who had obtained unregistered marijuana the information could be given to local enforcement officials.

This, Harland added, "would surely prove a significant link in a chain of evidence tending to establish his guilt under the state marijuana laws ..."

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
A TIME TO RELAX

Very shortly that midyear period known as summer, which starts officially on June 21, will be upon us. For many, it holds a threat of the impending tragedy of riots and strife. One can only pray that these forebodings will prove baseless, that summer will once again be as it should -- a time when the land is in full bloom.

In thousands of communities throughout the nation, people can look forward to a traditional summer. The lemonade stands will make their appearance along with the backyard hammocks and charcoal broilers. Long evenings will be spent in repose on porches and beneath favorite shade trees. The incomparable scenery of America will draw the usual millions of seashores and mountains.

In the days of dusty roads, barefoot boys and the old swimming hole, few were able to enjoy pilgrimages to faraway vacation spots. Those who do so now bear a heavy share of the responsibility for preserving the purity and beauty of our environment. Actually, summer is not different now than in the days of Mark Twain, and we should enjoy it.

LAOS, THE FORGOTTEN, TERRIBLE WAR

When a person refers to the war in Viet Nam, he can get an audience of informed persons. But if he should mention the ear in Laos, he is likely to draw blank stares.

The war in Laos is the forgotten war, forgotten by everyone but the Laotians, a few Americans and the Communists.

They have good reason to know about it, because this war has virtually bankrupted the Laotian economy, drained off most of the young manpower and maimed and killed thousands.

Laos is a nightmare of political factions: the Communist Pathet Lao, which has no part in the government and is fighting with the North Vietnamese; the neutralists; and the rightists. The latter two run the government when they aren't fighting each other.

In the opinion of most American military men, Laos would be a terrible place to fight a war; yet, for years a war has been fought there on and off.

Each month, scores of Communist Pathet Lao and Royal Laotian Army troops die in the almost daily skirmishes that are fought in the deep Mountainous jungles in the eastern part of the country.

It is the eastern highlands of Laos that are so strategically important. Through them runs the Ho Chi Minh Trail, along which the North Vietnamese move men and supplies to South Viet Nam. To Protect it, the Reds cut off a buffer zone which is guarded by Red troops.

In the north, the Communists control most of Houa Phan and Phong Saly provinces bordering North Viet Nam. A recent campaign was a drive against the Royalists in the Bolovens Plateau area of southern Laos, near the Cambodian border.

According to a Royal Army spokesman, an average of 300 Pathet Lao troops are being killed each month in battle. He places government losses at about 20 a month. But while Western military attaches in Laos say the Communist losses easily could be as high as the figures given, they say that the number of government troops killed are at least five times the official figure.

Americans die there, too. They try to cut the Ho Chi Minh Trail, but no official acknowledgement of these casualties is made, either in Vientiane, Laos, or in Washington,

There have been no reports on the number of bombers which have been lost over Laos or of the number of special forces troops who have been killed while fighting.

One U.S. Air Force officer has described the Tchepone road junction in east Central Laos as "the most bombed target in all Southeast Asia."

No one can predict when the 20 years of intermittent warfare in Laos will end. But everyone, from Premier Souvanna Phouma down to the lowest Laotian private, knows that only North Viet Nam's preoccupation in South Viet Nam has spared Laos' entry into a full-fledged Viet Nam type war.

The reason why Laos would be such a bad place to fight is its mountainous terrain and jungle. There are only 3,450 miles or roads.

THE RESTIVE MIDDLE CLASS

Inflation has been described as a tax on the poor and the elderly, but evidence mounts that it is beginning to hurt the average wage-earner. The great American middle class is having trouble making ends meet, and its mood is turning ugly.

Pete Hamill calls it the revolt of the White Lower Middle Class. "The working class earns its living with its hands or its backs," he writes. "Its members do not exist on welfare payments; they do not live in abject, swinish poverty, nor in safe, remote suburban comfort. They earn between $5,000 and $10,000 a year. And they can no longer make it in New York."

Their grievances seem to be centering -- in New York, at least -- on antipoverty and welfare programs for Negroes and on the failure of local government to provide services to match galloping tax rates. Gus Tyler calls it "the revolt of Mr. Middle."

A union wage study released on April 13 showed how higher taxes and rising prices had virtually wiped out pay increases obtained by New York City workers between 1965 and 1968. Of the 24 industry groupings studied, workers in 12 of them suffered a net loss in weekly purchasing power during the three-year period.

One example: A construction industry worker gross $170.69 weekly in 1965 and $201.12 in 1968 -- an increase of $30.43 a week. But his real net gain after higher taxes and inflation was only $1.36 per week.

Clearly some of the impetus for tax reform is stemming from the desire of the average worker to get the tax burden shared more equitably. Playing the tax loopholes has become a science for the wealthy and their lawyers, while the little man is lucky to save $20 on his tax bill at the nearest H&R Block office. The average taxpayer now spends two hours and 34 minutes out of every eight working to pay his local, state and federal taxes.

"Adam Smith," the ubiquitous and frequently on-target philosopher of the money marts, has invented a term for the new kind of paper wealth being created in America today. He called it Supercurrency. This could be money earned in a company which goes public and sells at thirty times the earnings.

"So they have thirty times as much money as we poor people who only earn the money and put it in the bank," writes Smith. "The poor innocents among us will not know there is a superior currency around. They will still think the green stuff in their wallets is money, and they will be bewildered."

A bewildered public is a potentially explosive one, and warnings already have been posted of a "taxpayers' revolt." Some citizens, moreover, are making the connection between inflation and the war in Viet Nam which, according to many economists, is the root cause of rising prices and the growing cost of government at all levels.

Something is in the wind. For the first time in years national spending proposals such as the antiballistic missile system and the supersonic transport and being subjected to close ECONOMIC as well as technological and political analysis. For the Nixon administration the big question of 1969 may be not how to deal with the Russians or Hanoi but how to pacify restive American wage-earners.

CASE HISTORY

You may be interested in a hassle they had in Port Orchard, Washington a few months back. Officials at the South Kitsap High School there let it be known that they were considering installing a fully automated cafeteria. That brought out the populace. The youngsters wouldn't get balanced meals, they said: The lunch would be cold, and not the needed hot foods and heaven help us, the school would lose its federal lunchroom assistance payments.

But, the officials went ahead. That federally assisted hot lunch program wasn't really a howling success anyway, since only about 20 per cent of the 1,135 students used the lunchroom at noon. It took five cooks to prepare the meals, and even with federal assistance the losses were staggering. So what happened?

The school cafeteria looks and operates like an automat. There's a wide variety of food available, far beyond anything possible under the federally assisted program: hot soup, pastries, ice cream, bevera ges, hot dogs and hamburgers as well as assorted cold sandwiches, freshly baked cookies and cake, and a daily special. Students pop a coin into a slot and take their choice. Three times as many students use the cafeteria at lunch time. There's less waste and spilling in the cafeteria. The official lunch period has been shortened. Two cooks do what five used to do.

More important, school officials have found it worth while to keep the cafeteria open most of the day. Many pupils have breakfast in the cafeteria before the school day begins, and many others pop in for between classes snacks. When there are after-school activities, the cafeteria is a meeting place.

About the balanced meals--hear what the school's principal has to say on that: "You talk about balanced meals. We used to see the pupils eating part of their hot lunch and throwing the rest away. I think everyone likes to pick and choose from a variety. This way, the pupil picks what the likes and doesn't waste any."

Federal assistance?

Who needs it? Patronage is up 300 per cent without it.

Doc. Duncan Says

Except for the fact people hang on to the two old parties that are in reality only one party, with one aim, that is to divide the people and perpetulate just what we have now. Some folks like what we have now but most of them are on taxpayers payroll or don't take the time to lay aside their worn out ides and look reality to scare in the face, except for that we could have an honest nation like we once had.

H.L. Hunt Says

INDIVIDUAL INITIATIVE

The words of Liberty and Freedom have an intrinsic beauty, reminding us of all which is good and to be desired in our country. These words also carry a ring of obligation and duty to our country, for Liberty and Freedom were bequeathed to us through the toil, sacrifice and determination of our forebears.

The individual initiative and profit motive system, which is the favorite whipping boy of all the left siders, is basic in preserving liberty and freedom. A citizen must be afforded economic liberty, as well as political liberty, if he is to truly enjoy freedom. Economic liberty carries its own obligations and responsibilities for if used inopportunely or unwisely financial reverse will surely follow.

The term "individual initiative and profit motive system" is highly preferable to "free enterprise," for there is nothing free involved. Too much lip service has been paid to free and too little to the enterprise part. A person's financial reward comes from his application of effort and enterprise, requiring work, thinking, time and personal dedication. The only thing free is the Freedom to make the effort required and thereby hope to reap the rewards of his enterprise which are is profits. Each individual, seeking to improve his standing in life through his personal application of his efforts and enterprise, with the liberty to do so, will cause progress in this Republic in future years just as it has in the past, which has caused us to become the greatest nation in the long history of the world. Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

Drew Pearson says: Negro History is in the making; Charles Evers chose to build rather than tear down; rampaging militants are harmful to all minorities

Washington
May 17, 1969

Dear Joe:

Two events happened in the past week which someday you and other boys of your age will look back on and say that they made history. One was the election of Charles Evers, a negro, to be the first mayor of a Mississippi town in 100 years. The second was the way a negro mayor, Walter Washington in Washington, D.C., and Luke Moore, the Negro U.S. Marshal, handled a crowd of rowdy and rebellious negro students at Howard University, a largely negro institution.

Both events show that despite some discouraging racial setbacks on the University campuses, we are making progress.

Charles Evers is a man who is the exact opposite of the young black militants who are tearing our campuses apart today. Some years ago his brother Medgar was shot and killed from ambush while putting his car in the garage, all because Medgar had urged voting rights for negroes.

Charles had every readon to be bitter about his brother's death. Most people would have resorted to revenge and violence. But Evers applied the doctrine of love

Patiently he went about the job of convincing white men in Mississippi that the black man had a right to vote; and of convincing black men that they should vote. He had a very difficult time doing this, because negroes were scared to death hen they came into the voting places. And they had reason to be. For in one town alone--McComb, Miss., -- in the summer of 1964 two churches were blown up and 20 negro homes damaged. I went down there that summer to bail out 30 young students who were arrested when they protested these bombings.

But Evers kept his head. He kept plugging away for the black man's right to vote. Gradually he began to win. The Congress, the courts sided with him. He put on a tremendous educational campaign among his own people to get them to register.

I was with Evers in Chicago shortly after he had won the right to eat in a white restaurant. We were raising money to send 20,000 turkeys to poor people for Christmas in Mississippi and I took him to he pump room of the hotel ambassador east, one of the more fashionable eating places in Chicago. The menu was in French.

Evers studied it quizzically. "That's the penalty of integration," he finally said. "You have to eat the white man's food."

Finally last week, he was elected mayor of the little town of Fayette, the first negro mayor elected in Mississippi since the carpet-baggers and the negro bosses went too far in reconstruction days.

--Will History Repeat?--

The rioting at Howard University and Cornell and the city college of New York where young negroes have burned and pillaged and disrupted is very similar to the excesses of those post-civil war days. And just as the highhandedness of some negroes after the civil war caused the loss of negro gains and sympathy for almost 100 years, so the excesses at universities today is likely to do the same thing.

When a minority of either black or whites paralyze a great university, when they rampage through libraries that I have taken years to collect, when they steal private papers from the files of college presidents, when they deny the right to learn to the majority of students who have paid for that right, then they hurt not only themselves but the goals of all minorities.

What the students of today don't realize is that it took years to put across federal aid to education, but it would only take a couple of days debate to Congress to end it.

I have heard Mrs. Agnes Meyer, who has crusaded for years for better public schools, tell how she went to see President Eisenhower in 1953, shortly after he was elected, to try to persuade him to push aid to education. He gave her a lecture against federal interference with schools and colleges.

Later, Sen. Joe Clark of Pennsylvania pushed an aid-to-education bill and it got a tie vote in the Senate. Vice President Nixon was then called upon to break the tie and he voted against education.

So, for more than ten years, Congress refused to vote funds for schools and colleges. And it was not until Lyndon Johnson, a southerner, became President that he changed this. Since then we have made the greatest progress in history toward better education--until this year.

And this year the student revolts have seriously set education back.

Another thing which the black militants don't realize is that when the state or the federal government gives them a free or cut-rate education, the state has a right to give some guidance regarding their studies. What the State needs is not Negroes educated in a lot of snap courses such as black studies, but negro doctors, lawyers and engineers.

Yet among Negro militants closed down the best Negro schools of medicine and dentistry at Howard university for no good reason at all. It hurt them and it set back progress toward the goals which they have been trying to long to achieve.

There was on healthy development, however. When the black militants refused to end their sit-in, two responsible Negroes, Mayor Washington and U. S. Marshal Moore, moved in to throw them out. And they did it far more efficiently than did the police at Columbia last year or the police at Harvard this year.

Which proves that qualified Negroes when given responsibility can and do excercise it. And the nation's greatest mistake was in not giving it to them sooner.

So I congratulate the people of Fayette, Miss., for electing a qualified Negro as Mayor and I congratulate Charles Evers for announcing as his motto, "Let's replace hate with love."

All this is why I say that someday your generation will look back on last week's achievements as a milestone in history. Love, Your Grandfather

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

White House On Spot:
Reuther-Teamsters Alliance Massing Forces For Triple Front Assault

Washington, D.C. -- From the Teamsters' marble mansion sitting eyeball to eyeball with the Capitol comes the word that they are beefing up their culture and culturing up their beef. The Brotherhood plans to turn a Miami Beach hotel into a labor school and educate its officials in blocs of a hundred. 'Tis no doubt Walter Reuther's influence. In turn, Mr. Reuther, a self-made intellectual, has learned to use muscle, albeit political.

It is not yet public, but the auto union chief has convinced Labor Secretary George Shultz to greet the new Alliance for Labor Action when it launches its new labor federation here Monday, May 25. Mr. Reuther and Teamsters acting president Frank (Fitz) Fitzsimmons privately interpret this as a fine political victory. Mr. Shultz's speech does not have White House clearance but it is a sign of the coup the redhead and "Fitz" have planned as a surprise to the enemy -- Mr. George Meany and the 13.2 million-member AFL-CIO.

Mr. Meany, who has been meeting with his high council here, has let the while House and Mr. Shultz know that he's far from estatic over the Secretary of Labor's acceptance of Mr. Reuther's and Mr. Fitzsimmons' invitation to help open the first ALA convention. It is Mr. Meany's icy view that the United Automobile Workers is the "American splitter organization . . a breakaway organization which aims to split . . a national trade union center and set up a labor federation dual and hostile to it (to the AFL-CIO -- VR)."

Those who know Mr. Meany know him as a crusty though inwardly shy, stand-up friend and an implacable, unforgiving opponent. Neither he nor the powerful AFL-CIO leaders soon will forget that Mr. Shultz has agreed to bring the prestige of a cabinet member to the auto union-teamsters alliance.

Mr. Shultz is an innocent victim, however, of cataclysmic labor collision. He feels that he could not turn down the invitation from wo powerful unions with a combined membership of 3.6 million. He will go but he does not plan to consort. He does plan to retort to Mr. Reuther's attack on President Nixon's farm labor policies. Mr. Reuther referred to these precepts as "shocking and disgraceful." These polices are, in fact, quite a revolutionary breakthrough, most experts believe.

Despite the unpublicized, behind-the-scenes duelling, the May 26 movement's gathering of some 500 delegates and another 500 observers and officials will be anticlimactic The excitement is in the answer to a question put recently by my friend, the dockwalloper bantam Teddy Gleason, the direct-to-the-point president of the international longshoremen's union.

"What the hell are the Teamsters going to do with Reuther?" Mr. Gleason asked in a recent dialogue. Part of the answer is knowledgeable but unprintable.

Point is, what are they going to do together now they have headquarters, (on the fourth floor of the McLachlen Bank Building, 11th Street and G Northwest), $4.5 million in guaranteed dues peel-off and a $6 million (pledged) strike fund?

The answer is in a pitchfork-pointed strategy.

Mr. Reuther wants to rock his membership from 1.6 million to everal million by moving into he building and construction field -- which is the wave of the future's future. Trillions will be spent rehousing and rebuilding America. There have been radical changes in housing materials and a revolution in building technology. A Southwestern hotel was constructed several years ago in preassembled completed units. A full bedroom, with beds made, was simply lowered by a crane into each floor along specific corridors, for example.

So Mr. Reuther wants assembly line housing construction in factories away from the site so his own union members can work on them. He believes he has convinced Housing and Urban Development Secretary George Romney of this technique's maximum feasibility.

There you have it. Mr. Reuther's union men will prefabricate the housing and Mr. Fitzsimmons' teamsters will haul it away.

Much of this will cut into the jurisdiction of the equally powerful 3.5 million member AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Dept.

Once again dockwalloper Gleason puts it poignantly:

"What the hell is jurisdiction? It's up for grabs in the labor movement."

The building trades aren't easily or peacefully raided.

On a econd front, the Reuther-Fitzsimmons team will search out "underorganized areas - such as the Du Pont plants or the oil installations in which there are many small independent unions.

The Reuther-Fitzsimmons combine will go to the AFL-CIO or independent union in the field and say: look here, you have not moved into all this territory; come with us, we'll give you money, manpower and political muscle and help you "organize the unorganized."

If the unions go along -- and many already approached have rebuffed the offer-- they'll leave the AFL-CIO and join the Alliance. If not, their jurisdiction will be raided by the Alliance brethren.

That will mean more war.

Finally, the combine plans to move into the inner cities, try to organize the black workers, the Puerto Ricans and the Chicanos (Mexican-Americans) into community unions. If this succeeds, these unions will be the base for the competition with the traditional unions. It could get awkward.

It could fulfill the dream of the 61-year-old Walter Reuther -- the dream of once again leading the masses as did the now desperately ill 89-year-old King Coal, John L. Lewis.

And it could be Mr. Reuther's nightmare -- because, in Mr. Gleason's graphic words: "What the hell do the teamsters want with Reuther?"

MR. AND MRS. HARRY W. NOLES celebrated their golden wedding anniversary May 11 with a reception at the North Acres General Baptist church.

Reception Held On 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Noles, 517 Smith, were the honored guests at a reception May 11 to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary. The reception, given by children of the couple, T. A. Noles of Sikeston and Mrs. Helen Holcomb of Lebanon, Ill., was held from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. in the North Acres General Baptist church.

The Rev. Robert Jones offered an anniversary prayer and Violet Jones read a poem, "Home". Bud Duke led the guests in the hymn "Tis So Sweet To Trust in Jesus", accompanied by Mrs. Herbert Lynxwiller.

The table was decorated with gold cloth overlaid with lace. Serving as a centerpiece was a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums, a gift. Other gifts were displayed on another table decorated with a gold cloth, also. Other decorations were in keeping with this theme.

Refreshments of punch, cake, nuts and mints were served.

The couple was married May 11, 1919 at Lilbourn. Noles retired as a carpenter ten years ago. Both are members of the North Acres General Baptist church. They have five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Out of town guests were from St. Louis; Saybrook, Ill.; Gibson City, Ill.; Columbia, Ill.; Atica, Ill.; and Bell City.

Anniversary Celebration

Mr. and Mrs. William Skelly, 321 Greer, were surprised with an anniversary reception May 3, on their 22nd anniversary.

Hosts for the occassion were their daughters, Mrs. Mary Ann Hudson of Sikeston and Mrs. Oma Diamond of Benton. Assisting was Mrs. Frankie Summers.

The table was covered with a pink cloth. An arrangement of pink and red flowers and red candles centered the table. A crystal punch bowl and white and pink cake with a bride and groom also adorned the table.

Friends called in the afternoon, bringing gifts and best wishes.

Mr. and Mrs. Skelly were married in 1947 at Piggott, Ark. by a justice of the peace.

Biography Is Predicted Best-Seller

LONDON (AP) — Britain's latest historian is a lissome blonde society hostess who looks more like a movie star than a bookworm.

Lady Antonia Fraser's 613page biograph of Mary, Queen of Scots, hasn't hit the bookstands yet, but critics are predicting it will be a best-seller.

Lady Antonia, 36, is the Earl of Longford's daughter, a leader of fashion, writer of books on dolls and toys, a television personality and wife of a member of Parliament, Hugh Fraser.

She is also the mother of six children.

The biograph was an obsession, she says. She has been fascinated by the Stuart queen since childhood.

"It's a very exciting story," she says of the queen who married her husband's murderer and was beheaded in 1587. "It's got all the right ingredients—sex, murder, intrigues, lovers and bloodshed."

Lady Antonia gave birth to the book and her sixth baby at about the same time. That raised a few problems. She fainted while doing research in the British Museum, fell over while she was carrying heavy indexes, and then dislocated her neck from marathon bouts of typing. When it came to writing about Mary's execution, she wept.

"It sounds very affected, but somehow I felt we had been together for three years and it seemed so terrible that she should have to be going through all this," she told an Evening Standard columnist.

APAKAW Takes Diane Taylor

Diane Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ewart Taylor of Sikeston, was one of 32 members initiated into the APAKAW Honorary Society for freshman women at Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau, at a dinner held in their honor.

To be eligible for membership in APAKAW a student must have a least a 3.0 grade average. Members are chosen on the basis of leadership, community service, campus activities and scholastic achievement. Members of APAKAW are initiated during their freshmen year and are active through their sophomore year at college.

Miss Taylor also received the honor of being elected secretary of her pledge class of Alpha Delta Pi Sorority.

Dog Owners Feel Love Is More Important Than Rug

Dear Ann Landers: Your advice to Sad Eyes made my 10-year-old cry. How could you be so heartless as to suggest that "Sweetie," a nine-year-old dog who had been a family pet since puppyhood, be given away? Just because a dog ruins a few carpets is no excuse to break a child's heart. And do you know what this would do to Sweetie? He would surely die of loneliness. Please change your advice before you are deluged with letters from people who will take your hide off. ---Wyoming

Dear Wy: It's too late. The deluge has started. And the readers are against me 100 to 1. Read on:

Dear Ann: Your advice that an indoor dog be given to a farmer is typical of the dumb things city people come with. Farmers are already overrun with dog owners who don't know the first thing about animals.

I disagree that a nine-year-old dog cannot be housebroken. Perhaps not in his customary surroundings, but I'll bet if they build a dog house and enforce some new rules, Sweetie could be taught to mind his manners. --- Mrs. G.H.G.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 10 years old. I have a dog. When he wets on my mother's carpet I take some paper towels and blot it up. I use my foot. Then I pour white vinegar on the spot. It fixes everything. --- Dog Lover

Dear Ann: Our family refuses to believe that you consider wall-to-wall carpeting more important than a child's love for his dog. We have antique oriental rugs in our home and the spots made by our nervous little poodle and our lazy golden retriever has added character to these priceless floor coverings. Shame on you, Ann. --- Pittsburgh

Dear Ann: Your suggestion that a dog who has been a house pet for six years be given to a farmer was not a humane solution. To ask an aged dog to adjust to new people and new environment is unreasonable. It would be much better for the dog if they put him to sleep. --M.Y. of Williamsport

Dear Ann Landers: Are you on vacation? Please come back. I can't believe you gave that stupid answer. So the dog did a few things on the rug. So what? The notion that is perfectly O.K. to get rid of anything that presents a challenge is exactly what's wrong with society today. If you don't like school you drop out. If you don't like marriage you bust it up. If you don't like a job you quit. And now Ann Landers comes along and says if you can't housebreak your mutt give him to a farmer. Think it over, Toots. --- Winninpeg

Dear Winnie: I have thought it over and the next time I get a letter asking for advice about a dog I'm going to consult people who have dogs. Rugs I know something about but I'm no authority on dogs and my answer proved it.

Is alcoholism a disease? How can the alcoholic be treated? Is there a cure? Read the booklet "Alcoholism -- Hope And Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

SIKESTON'S Art Jackson, (right) placed fourth in the 100 yard dash Saturday in the State Class L track and field meet held in Columbia with a 9.9 time. Mike Chavis of Kansas City Southeast and Sumner's Glen Love (both at the left) placed one, two in the event.

Brock Leads 6-5 Victory; Cards Take Series2-1

Lou Brock sparked the St. Louis Cardinals to a 6-5 victory over San Diego Sunday, while the Kansas City Royals ran into too much Mike Cuellar and bowed to Baltimore, 5-0.

Brock lashed three hits, driving in a run with one of them, and scored a run after picking off his 12th stolen base of the season against the Padres.

Despite his heroics, the Cardinals had to sweat it out as the Padres rallied for three runs in the last of the eighth inning to trim the final margin to a single run.

Reliever Ron Willie came out of the bullpen to put down the San Diego uprising, then Gary Waslewski finished up for him in the ninth to protect Dave Giusti's third victory in seven decisions.

San Diego knocked out Giusti in the eighth on a double, two triples and a sacrific fly.

Brock beat out an infield single, stole second, continued to third on an overthrow and scored on an error in the seventh to give the Cards a 6-2 lead. Hits by Joe Hague and Brock had broken a 2-2 tie and given the Cards the lead for good in the third.

Cuellar, a former National Leaguer who is helping establish Baltimore as the American League favorite this year, evened his record at 4-4 with a two-hit shutout over the Royals, his second whitewash. Only Juan Rios' first-inning single and Ed Kirkpatrick's secondinning triple marred Cuellar's performance.

The Orioles broke up a pitching duel between Cuellar and rookie Dick Drago with a threerun rally in the seventh. Cuellar tripled home one of those runs, and the other two scored on Dave Johnson's single and an error. Boog Powell smacked his fourth home run in the eighth.

Both the Cardinals and Royals are idle today.

UNVEILING the sign which designated the Parma high school baseball field as Jackson Field are Bob Lewis and David Sharp. Both were instrumental in the baseball building program and were among the group that initiated the drive to name the field after Jackson.

KC Central Wins State Track Title

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Kansas City Central won its fifth straight state Class L outdoor high school track championship Saturday, but not as easily as expected.

Central had 34 points, Kansas City Southeast 29, Kirkwood 17½, St. Louis Northwest 17.

Harvey Greer, Central coach, followed the triumph with the announcement that he is resigning at the end of the term to begin study toward a doctorate in education at the University of Kansas. During his tenure, Central won 87 meets in the last five years, against only one defeat and one tie.

Kennett scored 12 points for fifth place, with Greg Buys posting firsts in the Discus and Shot Put and David Bruce placing fourth in the two-mile run.

Four Southeast Missouri teams scored a total of 25 points with Kennett's 12 leading the way. Poplar Bluff scored eight, Sikeston 4½ and Charleston ½ point.

Sikeston's Art Jackson and David Newberry scored for the Bulldogs, with Jackson placing fourth in the 100-yard dash and Newberry third in the Pole Vault. The Dogs' 880-yard relay team failed to place but set a new school record as did Newberry in the pole vault.

Mike Robins scored Charleston's point by tying for fifth in the 440 yard dash.

GOSPORT, England (AP) — Capt. Rudland Cairns, a foxhunter and farmer in his spare time, has said goodby to the royal navy in sporting style.

He rode out of his base here after 35 years with the navy in an old stage coach as a navy band played and a bugler blew fanfares on a post horn.

DAVID NEWBERRY of Sikeston is shown as he attempts to clear the 13 foot, eight 5/8 inch mark in the pole vault event during Saturday's state meet in Columbia. Newberry vaulted the mark and took third in the event, setting a school Pole Vault record.

Parma fielded its first high school baseball team in three seasons, and will have its first summer baseball program since 1960. The man who has been instrumental in making this all possible - Forest Jackson - was honored by having a new field named after him.

Jackson came to Parma as its new superintendent of schools in 1968. He immediately set out to get a field ready for a summer baseball program, which has been lacking in the community for nine years.

City officials and citizens of the community tried unsuccessfully for eight years to persuade the school system to newly relight the field so a summer baseball program could be properly run, but were unable to get the ball rolling until Jackson took over.

Jackson was named commissioner of the Parma summer baseball program and has set up four little league teams, four pee-wee league teams, and two Babe Ruth squads.

In a showing of their appreciation for his efforts, citizens and school officials named the field Jackson field in brief ceremonies Friday.

Jackson will become superintendent of Kelly schools in June, leaving Parma with a new baseball field and a desire to keep the ball rolling.

FORREST JACKSON, superintendent of Parma schools, was honored Friday when citizens and members of the school named the newly remodeled high school baseball field after him. He was instrumental in obtaining the new lighting, bleachers and concession stand.

When the basketball season ended at Brigham Young, leading scorer Doug Howard turned up as the varsity first baseman. He had only two days of baseball practice before the first game.

Jayhawks Win Big 8 Track Meet

By LEW FERGUSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Stan Whitley admitted that long jumping — even when he sets records—had gotten to be something of a "drag" to him, so he went out and took third place in the 220-yard dash, fourth in the 100 and ran on Kansas' winning 440-yard relay team Saturday.

That gave the scholarly-looking Jayhawk senior from Washington, D.C., a hand in 34 of KU's record-smashing 180½ points in the 62nd Big Eight Conference track and field championships, which ended Saturday at Iowa State University.

"I like the sprints just about as well as the jumping," said Whitley, who added a fourth place in the triple jump to his list of accomplishments. "Jumping is my No. 1 event, but there may be more of a thrill in running against somebody. Jumping is such an individual thing."

For his performance, Whitley was named the meet's outstanding individual. He won the Henry F. Schulte Memorial Award, given annually by the Omaha World - Herald in memory of the late Nebraska track coach.

"It's a great honor," Whitley said. "This meet has a lot of outstanding people in it."

Whitley won the long jump in 26 feet, 1 inch Friday, setting one of only two records rung up during this year's Big Eight meet. The other was a 192-8 heave in the discus by Kansas' Doug Knop.

Despite the presence of the most talented field in conference history, the weather cut down on performances in Saturday's 15-event and no more records were set.

An overnight rain Friday night left workmen in a scramble to get the track dried out, and it was not good on Saturday. Some runners said it felt like they were running on sand, so loose was the footing.

The weather was a chilly 50 degrees, heavily overcast and with a brisk north wind blowing, hardly conducive to record setting.

Jim Ryun accomplished his purpose of wiping out the memory of quitting in a half - mile race at the Drake Realsy by winning the mile in 4:08.9 and the half-mile in 1:48.7. While neither time broke the conference record and Ryun departs the collegiate scene, ironically, without holding either record in the Big Eight, his times were remarkable.

He got stomach cramps while running the mile and said they did not abate until his final lap. He coasted to victory in the mile.

In the half-mile, Ryun stumbled about 200 yards into the race to fall 15 yards behind the leaders. He stormed past them on the final curve, however, to win easily.

"I really thought I could run faster," he said, "and for that reason I'm disappointed. Of course I wanted the records. I wanted to run a four-minute mile but I got the stomach cramp about 300 yards into the race. I felt terrible until the final lap."

With Karl Salb, Steve Wilhelm and Knop finishing 1-2-3 in the shot, Ryun's victories and Whitley's performance, Kansas broke its own point-total record of 173 set in 1955.

Realtor Week Observed Here

"Home Ownership – Foundation of the Nation" has been selected as the theme of Realtor Week, May 18-24, 1969, Charles M. Mitchell, president of the Sikeston Board of Realtors, announced today.

The Sikeston Board joins with more than 87,000 Realtors throughout the nation in community - wide observances and activities directing attention to the professional services they render and their efforts to help solve the major problems of our cities and towns.

He pointed out that this slogan merits special attention as a stabilizing force in an era marked by problems ranging from riots and a sagging respect for law and order to soaring housing demand and interest rates.

Home ownership is enjoyed by more than two-thirds of the families across the nation, Mitchell said, a dream Realtors have aided materially in attaining. This record of home ownership is matched by few other countries in the world, but it can become an even greater boon as it is extended to increasing numbers of low-income families through special programs and efforts. This goal is just one of those incorporated in the Make America Better Program of Realtors.

The National Association of Real Estate Boards, one of the country's largest trade and professional associates, was founded in 1908. Maintaining offices in Chicago and Washington, it furnishes Realtors with the latest information on real estate developments, mortgage conditions, economic trends, latest techniques, and other business factors. The Sikeston Board of Realtors was founded and joined NAREB on Nov. 5, 1955.

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Rhodesia is to switch to the metric system of weights and measures and wants to make the change "not later than" neighboring South Africa, Commerce and Industry Minister Jack Mussett announced. Rhodesia has close trade and other ties with South Africa, which plans to introduce the metric system by 1971.

Bell City to Clean-Up

BELL CITY — The M.Y.F. of the Bell City United Methodist Church and the pastor, The Rev. John Maynard, attended the regular sub- district meeting at Essex, Monday evening. Those attending were Max and Terry Eakin, John and Mickael Johnson, Donna and Phil Stephens, Rhonda Weeks and Bill Knoderer.

Max Eakin was elected President of the sub-district, after serving as vice-president the past year, other officers elected were: Miss Suzanne Allen of Parma, vice president, Miss Karen Tulley of Sadler's Chapel, secretary and treasurer and the Rev. Maynard was re-elected minister counselor for the second year. The Bell City group were awarded the Attendance Banner for the second consecutive time.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Limbaugh and co-owners, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Sander and Mr. nd Mrs. L. A. Schuerberg of Sikeston have sold their farm holdings near Noble Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Sander and son, Chris, who have lived on the farm, will move to the Limbaugh Farms, near Bell City and assume management.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Brown, St. Louis, were weekend guests of their daughter in - law and grandson, Mrs. Otto Dietrich and son, also her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James DeLay.

S-Sgt. and Mrs. James C. Deck and sons, who had recently returned from a 18 month tour of duty in Vietnam, were guests of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Howard R. Overbey and children of Bell City after visiting in Dearborn, Mich., with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Deck. Sgt. Deck has reported to a base in Nashville, Tenn., where he will be until January, when he and his family will leave for Germany for a three-year stay with the Air Force.

Mrs. James DeLay, Mrs. Norval R. Spears, Mrs. Joe Redman, Mrs. Frank Gilles, and Mrs. Morgan English were guests of the Advance Chapter, O.E.S. Tuesday evening, when the Advance Chapter honored Mrs. English, Grand Marthe of the Order, of the state of Missouri, with a special program. Other special guest was, Mrs. Max Mickeal, Charleston, District Deputy Grand Matron of the 50th district.

Chaplain and Mrs. Eugene Gardiner and children, of Chanute Air Force Base in Illinois, left Wednesday, fter visiting his mother, Mrs. Jessie Gardiner Monday morning their baby daughter, Ruth, 18 months old had the misfortune to get burned, she pulled a cup of hot water off on her, burning her on the face and chest, the burns were not serious, but painful.

According to city officials, the weeks of May 12 to May 24 inclusive has been declared "Paint Up, Clean Up and Fix Up weeks.

The city will pick -up trash on Saturday May 24th.

All trash must be put into boxes or sacks and treelimbs tied in bundles which two men can handle and place near the property line on the Saturday morning of the pickup.

All unoperative or junked automobiles parked on the city streets for a period longer than two weeks will be declared abandoned and will be towed away and sold for junk.

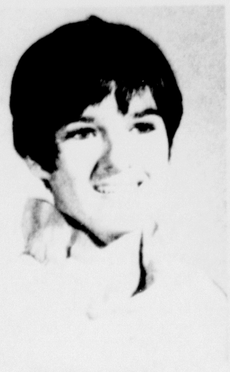

Miss Skalsky Among Top Graduates

Norma Skalsky, Sikeston, is one of five seniors who will graduate this year from Southeast Missouri State College with a grade point average above 3.9. Miss Skalsky's average is 3.953. The perfect grade point is 4.

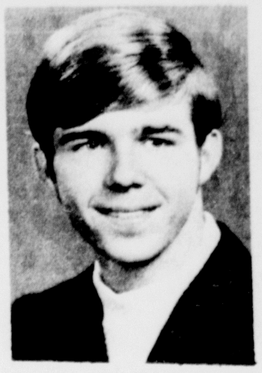

Brenda Kay Quinn, Portageville, is highest with a 3.975 average. Other students above 3.9 are Sally Northdurft, Garden City, N.Y., 3.956; Carla Kay Collinger, Fredericktown, 3.930, and Cheryl Keller, Gordonville, 3.916.

Lynn Colley

Debbie Collins

Jim Warf

Colley, Collins, Warf to Perform In Little Theatre's "Showboat"

Lynn Colley, Debbie Collins and Jim Warf are three of the performers who will appear in Sikeston's Little Theater production of "Showboat." The show will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights at Middle School.

Colley will portray Jim Greene, owner of famed Chicago nightclub, "The Trocadero." Warf will portray Frank Schultz, a villian, Miss Collins will play Ellie Mae Chipleys, an entertainer.

Adding color to the play will be Ellie May's decision whether to marry Jim Greene or head to the city with Frank Schultz. Each night's performances begin at 8 o'clock.

REALTOR WEEK MAY 18–24

Proclamation by the MAYOR for Realtor Week

WHEREAS, the Sikeston Board of Realtors is joining with many of the other 1,550 boards of the National Association of Real Estate Boards throughout the country in observing Realtor Week, May 18-24; and

WHEREAS, the Realtors of our community continue to contribute freely of their professional skills in the successful work of civic and fraternal clubs, government commissions and agencies, and educational institutions of Sikeston; and

WHEREAS, the Realtors throughout this great country of ours have undertaken the broad Make America Better Program designed to help solve the major problems of our cities and towns; and

WHEREAS, the bulk of the progress of our community is directly attributable to the competence with which Realtors are taking part in the commercial and industrial growth of our city; and

WHEREAS, the Code of Ethics to which Realtors are pledged places them in the forefront of the responsible organizations in this country and Realtor Week is designed to acquaint the public with these high standards of professional service provided by Realtors;

NOW, THEREFORE, I Arthur Ziegenhorn, Mayor of Sikeston do hereby proclaim May 18-24 to be Realtor Week and urge my fellow citizens to join with the Sikeston Board of Realtors in its observance.

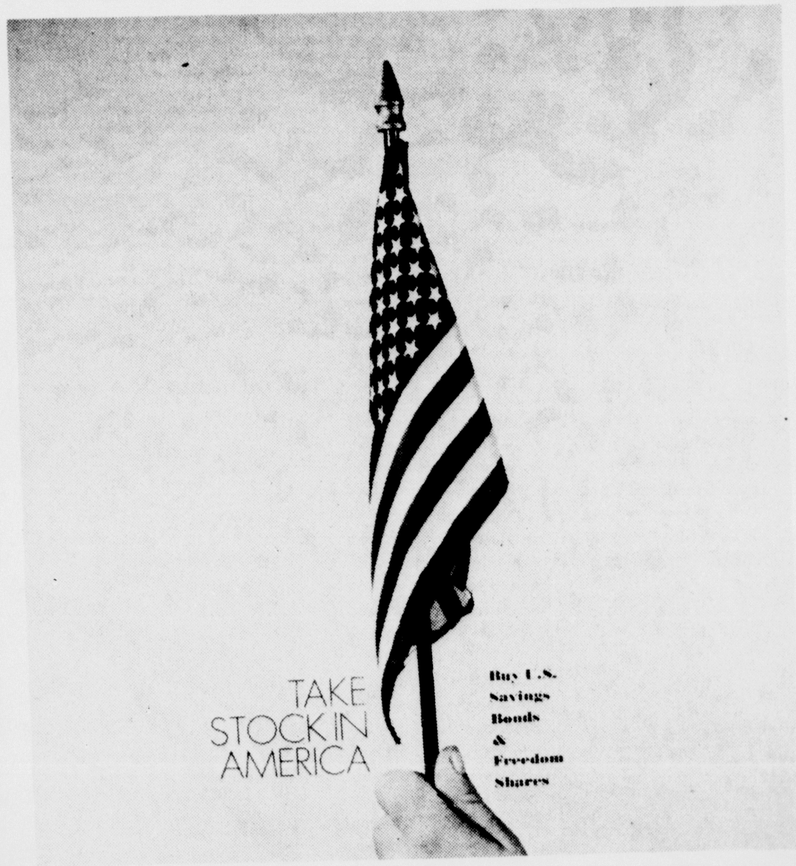

IN WITNESS THEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the city of Sikeston to be affixed this 19th day of May, 1969.

Bridge To Link Two States

(from the Commercial Appeal)

Equipment is being assembled to move into position on the Missouri and Tennessee sides of the Mississippi River so construction can begin in June on the new bridge (sketched above). The first construction will cost $7,764,193 and will include preliminary work for the main river spans. The bridge, when completed in 1972 at a total cost of 25 to 30 million dollars, will carry two 38-foot roadways. It will connect Dyersburg, Tenn., with Interstate 55 at Hayti, Mo., and will be the only crossing of the river in the 219-mile stretch from Cairo, Ill., to Memphis. Although the bridge location has been determined, the routing of approaches on both sides is still unannounced. The Missouri Highway Department has tentatively located the access road to the bridge on that side of the river but rights-of-way have not been bought and the location has not been made public. In Tennessee, two routes in Dyer County are being considered but no decision has been made public.

'Taps' Sounds at Memorial Services

MEMORIAL DAY "TAPS" — A bugler sounds "Taps" at the Tomb of the Unknowns, Arlington National Cemetery, during Memorial Day ceremonies May 30, 1961. The wreath is from President John Kennedy. It was placed at the memorial to the dead of three wars by Sen. Richard Russell, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee. Russell, left, stands with Defense Secretary Robert McNamara and Army Maj. Gen. Charles Gailey Jr.

By ARLEEN ABRAHAMS
Associated Press Writer

It never made the Hit Parade but over the past century its plaintive notes have been heard by Americans again and again. And on May 30, when most of the country will mark the 100th official anniversary of Memorial Day, the playing of "Taps," as usual, will sound the keynote of the observance.

"Taps," that melancholy bugle call which signals both the close of a soldier's day and the end of his life, came out of the Civil War at about the same time of the first unofficial observance of a Decoration Day.

In July 1862, the Union Army of the Potomac was engaged in a series of exhausting battles near Harrison's Landing, a small Virginia town on the James River. One night, Capt. Robert Ellicombe, of the Union Army, was aroused by the moans of a wounded Confederate soldier in the no man's land separating the Union and Confederate forces. He decided to rescue the man.

Crawling cautiously, Ellicombe made his way to the wounded man, pulled him to the Union lines. But the trip was too much for that Johnny Reb. By the time Ellicombe completed his mission, he was dead.

Examining the body by the dim glow of a lantern, the captain suddenly went cold with shock — it was his own son! (Another version holds that it was his nephew.) The boy had been studying music in the South and without telling his father had enlisted.

The heartbroken father received permission to give him a military burial behind the Union lines. As a final gesture of farewell, Ellicombe had a bugler play a few bars of the handwritten music found on a piece of scrap paper in the boy's pocket. The music was the original notes for "Taps."

A few days later that piece of paper came into the possession of Gen. Daniel Butterfield, Ellicombe's commanding officer. Gen. Butterfield summoned a bugler named Oliver Morton and instructed him to arrange the notes for a new bugle call which would replace the old "Lights Out." That night "Taps" was heard for the first time as the official number heralding the close of day.

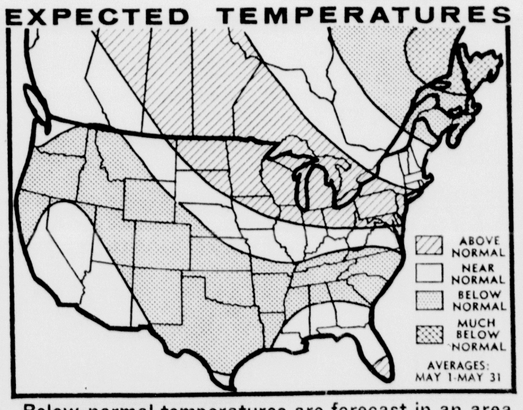

The call was quickly picked up by other units. By May 1868, when Gen. John A. Logan, commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, issued the first official proclamation setting forth May 30 as a day "for strewing with flowers the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country in the late rebellion," "Taps" was the official military bugle call.

Known as Decoration Day until 1882, Memorial Day now marks tribute paid in the United States to the dead of all its wars. Observances include military and civic parades, decorating with flowers the graves of American servicemen in foreign cemeteries, water services for those who died at sea and ceremonies at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery. Fittingly, these official observances close with the playing of "Taps."

BUILDING FOR DEAD

KYOTO (AP) — Shortage in burial land has brought about a 10-story ferro-concrete building in Kyoto, West Japan, purely to house the dead.

The Nishi-Honganji Temple constructed the building, which is complete with a hall for worship.

The Japanese practice is to cremate their dead and have the ashes either enshrined at home or buried in a family plot.

Ashes of the dead are contained in specially made urns placed in cabinet-size repositories.

Prices of a repository range from 300,000 yen (about $833) to 1,000,000 yen (about $2,777).

BORGER, Tex. (AP) — An unidentified Borger man correctly predicted in mid-March that striking employes of Phillips Petroleum Co. would be back on the job one midnight.

He said he knew the strike was over when he was in a grocery store and watched wives of workmen on the midnight shift buying supplies for their husband's sandwiches.

Adams Receives Vietnam Medal

VALDOSTA, Ga. - Sergeant William L. Adams (right), son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Adams of R.R. 1, Bell City, Mo., receives the U.S. Air Force Commendation Medal at Moody AFB, Ga., for meritorious service in Vietnam. Sergeant Adams distinguished himself as a mason at Tan Son Nhut Air Base. He was cited for his outstanding professional skill and initiative. The sergeant is now at Moody in a unit of the Air Training Command. A 1964 graduate of Scott County Central High School, Morley, Mo., he attended Southeast Missouri State College. First Lieutenant Thomas G. Goodwin, commander of the 3550th Air Base Group, makes the presentation.

Sun Offers New Flights

Sun Airlines will offer improved service to Sikeston effective May 15th, according to information released today by C. L. Denison, Vice President in Charge of Sales and Passenger Relations for the Memphis based airline.

"With the delivery of our new 18 paggenger DeHavilland Turbo Prop planes", Denison stated, "we are able to "beef up" our flights on our most used routes. This means that not only are more flights available but that more seats are available on each of the legs flown by DeHavilland planes."

"Wherever possible", Denison said, "we are trying to give Sun Airline customers out-in-the-morning . . . . home - the - same - evening service. This, combined with an eye on the service offered by the trunk carriers to make better connections possible, dictates departure times in most cities."

Denison pointed out the fact that passengers continuing on beyond Sun Airline's five-state, seventeen-city service area could be ticketed through on a single ticket basis to their ultimate destinations through Sun's interline agreements with the nation's major trunk carriers.

All of Sun Airline's reservations are handled through a central reservations office in Memphis and Denison said passengers could call 800-238-5332, a toll free call from Sikeston for immediate confirmation.

Effective May 15th, Sun Airlines will offer nonstop service to Memphis; three direct flights daily to Lambert Field in St. Louis in addition to flights to Cape Girardeau on a Monday through Friday basis. Added to the new Sun Airlines schedule is service to Lake of the Ozarks during the vacation season.

If You Were the Judge

Fire Levels House; Men Argue. Owner Sues City

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

When Horace's house caught fire, he watched hopefully as firemen from nearby Sparkville quickly appeared. Losing no time, they laid out their equipment and prepared to do battle with the flames. The only battling they did, however, was with the firemen from Hopskotch who arrived shortly thereafter.

With chips as well as fire-axes on their shoulders, the smoke eaters from Hopskotch insisted that it was up to them to put out Horace's fire, since they claimed, and rightly so, that Horace's house was in Hopskotch and not in Sparksville.

By the time the heated argument ended, Horace's house had burned to the ground. Homeless, Horace sued the city of Hopskotch for its loss.

"If its firemen had stuck to fighting fires instead of other firemen," he fumed, "my house would be standing today. They were negligent in letting it burn to the ground."

"Arguments will happen," retorted the city's attorney, but that's no basis for holding Hopskotch responsible for the destruction of Horace's house. Under the law, it's well established that a city cannot be held responsible for the destruction of property due to its negligent failure to put out a fire. Therefore, Horace's complaint must be dismissed!"

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you dismiss Horace's complaint

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that while Hopskotch might not be responsible for negligently failing to extinguish Horace's fire, it could be held responsible for wrongfully preventing the Sparkville firemen from putting out the blaze.

(Based upon a 1962 New York Supreme Court Decision)

BUILDING EXPANDS

TOKYO (AP) — The massive Diet (parliament) building, symbol of government authority, has become too small to house the various committees and subcommittees of its upper and lower houses.

The government is spending $6,000,000 to build two four-story buildings on both sides of the Diet to house committees and subcommittees.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

"For their sake I consecrate myself." (John 17:19, RSV)

PRAYER: Heavenly Father, grant that I may always be in touch with the interests of others and ever be consecrating myself to their needs. May I also recognize others' needs and give myself to the business of helping them realize that as they live in harmony with Christ they will discover the best in themselves. In Jesus' name. Amen.

LILBOURN — Speaking at the annual Delmo Housing Corporation dinner at South Lilbourn Saturday night, the Rev. Father Wallace G. Ellinger, pastor of the Immaculate Conception Church, New Madrid, said, "A test of our values can be asked like this: What is most important to me? What is the right thing to do? What will help the greater number of people? Two other questions help distinguish our values. Can I get help here? Can I help here?

"The first question, can I get help here, is not a bad question. All people need help in various areas of their lives. Today the big business man needs the help and cooperation of many to make his enterprise go -- and he doesn't mind asking the help of others, be it the regular working people, the agencies of government, the voters or anyone whose aid he thinks will be useful.

"The so-called 'big people' are able to ask help more effectively than the disorganized and often disheartened people on the other end of our economic rat-race. But to ask help when it is needed is not a note of weakness, but of wisdom.

"Nevertheless, the other question must really be in the heart and mind of all, regardless of their standing in society, namely, can I help here? No matter how little of the world's goods a person has, they must always seek to keep an attitude that says how can I help? I want to help.

"It seems to me that only he individual can determine what he values most in life -- what his priorities will be with his limited amount of time and energy and other resources. When a man asks what is most important to me, he needs to be sure he is considering all of his needs, and really, one of his most important needs is to try to help the community in general.

"Our friend, Dear Abby, recently said the same thing when she answered one letter with this: When the chips are down, each one of us must decide for himself what is worth how much.

"Yes, it is true, as I indicated at the beginning -- every man is a potential adversary. But the man who is your potential adversary does not have to become one. If we all strive sincerely always to search out what people's words or actions really mean we'll have come a long way. If we, at the same time, seek to provide ourselves with a set of values worthy of a child of God, we'll certainly function a lot higher than just doing what comes naturally.

"If it be true that every man is a potential adversary, it is more true (if such a phrase be possible) that every potential adversary is really a potential friend and supporter."

An estimated 150 persons attended the dinner meeting.

Presiding was George T. Guernsey III, president of the corporation. He stated that 1968 had been a year of progress for the charitable and educational organization.

Two guests from other countries were A. Pamekas of Indonesia, and Olu Caulcrick of Nigeria.

Pamekas, who is on an eight months special tour for the United Nations, Department of Social Affairs, until August, is a graduate of the University of Amsterdam, majoring in social work.

Mrs. Caulcrick will complete her second year of social studies at Washington University, St. Louis, in June.

Reports were heard from the Delmo Villages of Homestown, North Wardell, East Prairie, Gobler, Wilson City, Morehouse, Kennett, North Lilbourn, South Lilbourn and Circle City.

Headstart reports were given from North Lilbourn and Morehouse.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, May 19, the 139th day of 1969. There are 226 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1536, the second queen of England's King Henry VIII, Anne Boleyn, was beheaded in London.

On this date:

In 1795, the Baltimore philanthropist, John Hopkins, was born.

In 1876, a centennial exposition opened in Philadelphia.

In 1941, during World War II, Italian troops aurrendered to the British in the mountains of northern Ethiopia.

In 1942, the Congressional Medal of Honor was conferred upon Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle for leading the first air attack against Tokyo in the Pacific war.

In 1943, Britain's Prime Minister Winston Churchill addressed the U.S. Congress and pledged his nation's full support in the war against Japan.

In 1964, the U.S. State Department disclosed that 40 secret microphones had been found hidden in the U.S. embassy in Moscow.

Ten years ago: An East-West foreign ministers meeting in Geneva was in disagreement over the future of Berlin.

Five years ago: The slayer of Lee H. Oswald, Jack L. Ruby, was being treated for mental illness in his prison cell in Dallas.

One year ago: A wave of strikes in France had all but paralyzed the nation.

Apollo Crewmen Get Along Well Despite Individual Differences

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 10's crewmates are three different types from different backgrounds who mesh into a finely tuned team.

Thomas P. Stafford, a bald Air Force colonel with a sleepy grin and slow speech, is the commander.

John W. Young, the command module pilot, is a short, slender quiet-spoken Navy commander with a dry wit.

And the lunar module pilot is Eugene A. Cernan, a graying 35-year-old who talks rapidly and well and enjoys spending his off time planting, pruning and picking flowers.

"Because we're different types of personalities is probably why we get along so well," says Cernan. "We're not three one-man astronauts...and we're not two guys and one guy, or one guy and two guys. We're three guys that have a great deal of confidence in each other."

The three will fly a mission designed to solve some mysteries about the moon and clear the way for a landing there in July.

Their flight will be the first time America has sent into space three men who've all been there before.

Stafford was the pilot on Gemini 6 and the commander on Gemini 9.

Young was pilot on Gemini 3 and commanded Gemini 10.

Cernan was the pilot on Stafford's Gemini 9 flight.

The trio will fly an orbit of the moon. Then Cernan and Stafford, in a lunar module, will dip down to within nine mile of the lunar surface, while Young orbits the mother Apollo vehicle.

Having to stop at nine miles has been a disappointment for the three.

They were originally assigned to take along lunar module five, the spacecraft designed as the first lunar lander. But a change in mission sequence moved the landing honors to Apollo 11. Apollo 10 is designed as a dress rehearsal for the first lunar touchdown.

This was not the first space spectacular snatching from Stafford by changes in timing.

He was assigned to be America's first space-walker on Gemini 6. But the space stroll scheduled was advanced and the honor went to Edward White on Gemini 4 instead.

Even the triumphs of Stafford's space flights have included frustration.

He and Walter M. Schirra were scheduled to make the first rendezvous and docking in space on Gemini 6, but the target spacecraft blew up after launch. They had to settle for the first space meeting of two manned craft. They rendezvoused with Gemini 7.

Stafford's second flight also called for a space docking, but the cover on the docking target vehicle failed to fully eject, blocking the link up.

Stafford admitted later that for an instant he had an impulse to ram the jammed jaws of the docking cover, which he said looked like "an angry alligator."

The six-foot space pilot now laughs at what some call the"Stafford jinx."

"When I flew with Wally on my first flight, I was sure it was Wally that was the jinx," Stafford said recently. "Then on Gemini 9, I thought it was probably Gene. But I finally realized maybe I was the Joe Blftspk of the Gemini program."

"We've got a lot of things to worry about, but I don't reckon that's one of them," says Young of the "jinx."

Stafford was born and grew up in Weatherford, a small town in west-central Oklahoma.

He went to the U.S. Naval Academy, graduated 50th of 783 in 1952 and took his commission in the Air Force.

Stafford flew fighters in the United States and Germany and was sent to test pilot's school. Before he left the school, he was teaching classes and had co-authored two books still used as basic flight manuals.

He applied for acceptance in both the Harvard Business School and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration astronaut program.

He had been at Harvard three days and was still working on his first homework assignment when NASA called. The day was Sept. 17, 1962, Stafford's 32nd birthday.

Stafford married a Weatherford girl, the former Faye L. Shoemaker. Mrs. Stafford said her husband dated her oldest sister first, but then started helping her on math homework when he came over, instead of taking out the sister. They were married after he was graduated from the academy.

To John Young, even the long hours of training for a flight are "a heck of a lot of fun."

The 38-year-old Navy commander is the least talkative of the Apollo 10 trio, but the most apt to blurt out some surprise humor.

Young was the pilot on the first Gemini flight, the Gemini 3 mission commanded by Virgil I. Grissom.

The five-foot-nine pilot created what has become a favorite story in the space community.

On the day Gemini 3 was to be launched, Young carried on board a corned beef sandwich, a snack strictly forbidden in the weightlessness of space. Grissom ate it in orbit so the bread crumbs wouldn't float around the capsule.

After landing in Gemini 3 in the Atlantic and almost getting seasick, Young made the observation since quoted by other astronauts: "It's a wonderful spacecraft, but it's not much of a boat."

Young was born in San Francisco and moved to Orlando, Fla. at an early age. He was a straight "A" student in high school and an outstanding athlete in football and track.

His father, a retired officer in the Seabees, once said that Young as a boy "drew pictures of airplanes and rockets all the time."

Young earned a degree in aeronautical engineering at Georgia Tech and took a commission in the Navy. He became a crack fighter pilot and later a test pilot. In 1962, Young set time-to-climb records in a Navy F4B jet.

Six months later, NASA named him an astronaut.

Young frequently brings his son, John, to the office when he works at the Manned Spacecraft Center on weekends.

"He's a big rocket fan," says Young of his 10-year-old son. "He's got his own rockets and shoots them off all over. Probably knows a lot more about them than I do."

Young is married to the former Barbara V. White of Savannah, Ga. They also have a daughter, Sandy, 12.

Cernan, an outgoing 35-year-old Chicago native, is a precise and thorough pilot and engineer at work, but a "down to earth guy" who enjoys gardening and home projects during his days off, according to his wife.

Mrs. Cernan says her husband enjoys getting into some old clothes and working in the yard at their fashionable home near the space center.

Cernan received an electrical engineering degree from Purdue and became a Navy officer through the school's Naval ROTC program.

He went to flight school and later served on attack squadrons at Miramar, Calif.

He was named an astronaut in 1963, with the third group of spacemen selected by NASA. Cernan, now a Navy commander, was pilot on Stafford's Gemini 9 flight and spent two and one-half hours walking in space.

Mrs. Cernan is the former Barbara J. Atchley of Houston, a pretty former airline stewardess. Cernan overheard her name while buying an airline ticket, traced her telephone number, talked her into dating him and married her after a two-year courtship.

She shares his interest in flying and has taken pilot's lessons.

They have a daughter, Teresa Dawn, 5.

Cernan explains to his wife, he said, every phase of his missions. This, he said, helps relieve some of the fear for her.

"She's aware of what's happening, and, as a result, not necessarily scared or apprehensive," he said. "She understands what you're doing and isn't worried that every minute something's going wrong."

Army Mulls New Reserve Backup Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army staff is studying a plan that would tie some 650,000 National Guardsmen and Reservists more closely to emergency war plans.

This is the fourth effort since 1962 to improve the readiness of guard-reserve backup forces. Planners are shooting for deployment of some units overseas four weeks after they are mobilized.

The new proposal would probably mean the end of former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's "Selected Reserve Force"—137,000 men in units in theory prepared to deploy eight weeks after callup.

However, in the limited guard-reserve mobilization last year, the first of 43 units activated did not reach Vietnam until 15 weeks after callup. That unit was a dental detachment.

The new proposal takes on added importance because the Nixon administration is looking ahead to a possible million-man reduction in regular forces over a three-year period after Vietnam.

Unlike past moves, the new proposal does not involve eliminating any more guard or reserve units. About 3,500 surplus or obsolete outfits were culled out of the guard-reserve structure in a series of reorganizations.

Pentagon sources said the new plan ties specific Guard and Reserve units to specific war plans, and changes the composition of the backup forces as national contingency plans change.

All guard and reserve units would be assigned missions which would involve their possible deployment with four, eight, 12, 16, or more weeks post-mobilization active duty training.

Pentagon planning calls for 395,000 National Guard and 256,000 reserve troops next year.

Under the McNamara plan, units were designated for special priority in equipment and extra training.

Because of Vietnam, the selected Reserve Force has only about 50 per cent of the equipment it was supposed to receive. The rest went instead to new regular Army units formed during the war buildup.

Because of the Vietnam budget pinch extra readiness drills were ended nearly a year ago.

Rogers Says Allies Working for Peace

BANGKOK, (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers, arriving in Bangkok from Saigon, said today that the United States and its allies are working diligently for early peace in Vietnam.

"We all hope that the need for military action will soon be ended," he said in an airport statement.

Rogers is here to attend a meeting of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) Tuesday and Wednesday.

He was met by Thailand's Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman and was given the traditional garland of sweet smelling jasmine flowers as a sign of welcome.

Rogers told Thanat that the United States is a member of both the Atlantic and Pacific communities.

"We do not place priorities on our relationships with Europe or Asia," he said.

He apparently intended this to reassure the Asian allies that in seeking peace in Vietnam, the United States does not intend to turn its back on Asia.

During his four-day visit to Vietnam, Rogers sought to assure the government of President Nguyen Van Thieu that the Nixon administration does not plan to abandon the war or bargain away South Vietnam's right of self determination.

But after a five-hour meeting with Rogers, Thieu said the next day that he wanted to meet with President Nixon because he felt much more coordination was needed between his government and the United States.

Some South Vietnamese are worried that Nixon in his intensive efforts to secure peace may come under pressure in the United States to make concessions to the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front. Premier Tran Van Huong told the Associated Press in an interview that "the Americans are too anxious to get peace."

South Vietnam's Foreign Minister Tran Chanh Thanh said in Bangkok today that Thieu wants to meet with Nixon to discuss postwar problems and not because there are any basic policy differences between Washington and Saigon.

While South Vietnam is in basic agreement with the Nixon proposals, some questions have been raised about his call for elections and also his suggestion that South Vietnam may decide to become neutral after the war. Thieu tends to equate neutralism with Communism.

Legislators Have Enacted Only 15 Bills

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Missouri's 1969 legislature came back to work today with a record of having enacted 15 new laws in the first three-quarters of its six-month session.

All the big questions, such as financing the state services in the coming fiscal year and how to pay for them, still face the two houses. But such major problems normally are solved, if at all, at the end of a session.

Among bills enacted so far are:

A $1.5 million emergency bill for money-short state agencies.

Authority for school principals or superintendents to suspend obstreperous students for up to 10 days without a hearing before the school board.

Provision of on-the-job training opportunities for inmates of the state training schools at Boonville and Chillicothe.

A model bill that would permit transplantation of human organs and set up a procedure to make sure they are legal.

Provide four more legal Monday holidays by setting that day for recognition of Washington's Birthday, Decoration Day, Columbus Day and Veterans' Day.

Let podiatrists (foot doctors) use drugs in the practice of their profession.

Permit the sale of milk in one-third quart containers.

A special committee session has been scheduled for tonight on what to do to modernize the old presidential electoral college system or scrap it for a popular vote idea.

Krist Goes On Trial for Coed Kidnap

DECATUR, Ga. (AP)—Bearded, taciturn Gary Steven Krist went on trial today on a charge of kidnaping coed Barbara Jane Mackle, who was buried alive whole her abductors collected $500,000 ransom last December.

Krist, 24, a convicted car thief and prison escapee, was brought to the DeKalb County Courthouse in handcuffs. His black beard and black suit starkly contrasted with his prison pallor.

Conviction would mean the death penalty or life imprisonment.

Krist, who once escaped a California prison, is charge with Ruth Eisenmann-Schier, 26, Honduras-born biologist, in the Dec. 17 abduction of the Emory University coed.

Miss Schier is to go on trial June 16.

The courthouse is not far from the motel where the 20-year-old student was taken from a sickbed, then buried alive in a plywood crypt under 18 inches of clay while a $500,000 ransom was negotiated with her father.

Krist has spent the last three weeks in a hospital undergoing psychiatric examination. He was removed from the DeKalb County jail April 22 after collapsing from a 27-day hunger strike.

Miss Mackle spent 83 hours buried below the ground in a coffin-like box equipped with air pipes, a fan, a battery-powered light and a small quantity of food and water.

Her father, Robert F. Mackle, a Coral Gables, Fla., land developer paid the ransom for information that led FBI agents to her prison.

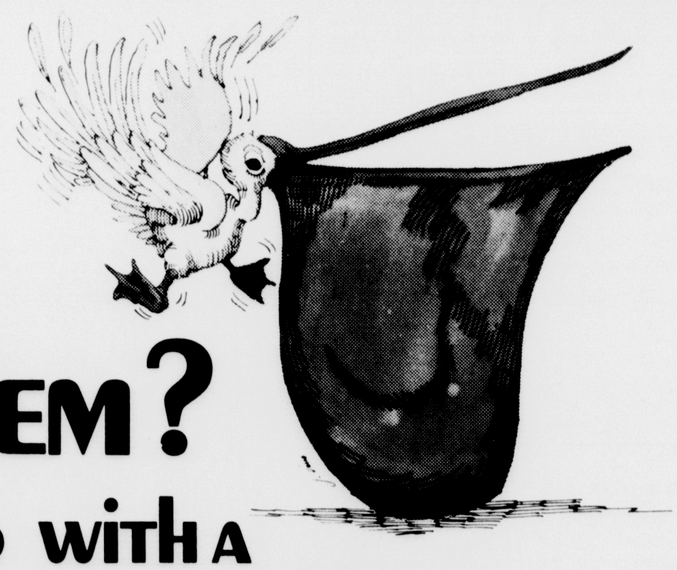

Krist was captured on alligator-infested Hog Island on Florida's Gulf coast soon after the ransom payoff, and $400,000 of the money was with him, the FBI said.

THE NURSING PREPARATION – Ollie May White award, was presented to Miss Mickey Bass, by Mrs. Mildred Robinson, bioloby teacher I and II, today at honors assembly at Sikeston high school field house.

Sikeston Students Receive 24 Awards

Awards for outstanding work were presented to 24 Sikeston students during honors ceremonies held at the Field House this morning.

The awards and recipients were:

Jodie Graff -- Business and Professional Woman's Club Art Award.

Leslie Johnson -- Sikeston Public Library English Four Award.

Betty Powers -- Daughters of the American Revolution Award for American History.

Mary Ann Sappenfield -- C. L. Blanton Sr. Outstanding Journalism Award.

Leslie Johnson and Gay Goehie -- Sikeston Community Teachers Scholarships. ($250).

Linda Brewer -- Girl making most progress in music during year. Robert Hazel -- Boy making most progress in music during year.

Debbie Collins -- Phi Beta Mu, National Honorary Band Directors Fraternity.

Betty Powers -- Outstanding Senior in Future Business Leaders of America.

Grady Jones -- Library Service Award.

Bruce Barnes -- New Forensic League Traveling Trophy.

Mickie Sue Bass -- Ollie May White Award for Nursing Preparation.

Steven Counts -- J. Edward White Award in Science.

Marsha Hixon and Terry Bryant -- Lions Club Citizenship Awards.

Donna Wheeler -- Outstanding Member for Girls Intramurals.

Phyllis Ford, -- Coalesce Club Homemaking Award.

Bob Lambert and Nancy Turner -- American Legion Good Citizenship awards.

Dennis Snelling and Art Jackson -- American Legion Outstanding Athlete awards.

Bruce Farris -- J. Hershel Tyer Football Scholarship Fund.

Fred Towns -- Bill C. Ryan Scholarship Fund.

Betty Powers -- Potlatch Forests Foundation Scholarship ($300.).

STEVE COUNTS won the Science -- the Edgar White award -- today at high school honors assembly. It was presented by Mrs. Mildred Robinson, biology instructor.

Astronauts in Good Shape

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 10 moved flawlessly toward its moon destination today with only two minor complaints from the crew—dull thuds that interrupted their night's sleep and water chlorine that burned their mouths.

Despite the interruptions caused by periodic bursts from their small rockets the astronauts reported "We had a real great night's sleep."

About two hours after they began their sleep cycle, following Sunday's precise and hitchless launching, the astronauts complained mildly about the noise made by the rockets that slowly rotate the spacecraft. They worried about fuel consumption.

But on awakening after about 10 hours Air Force Col. Thomas P. Stafford reported "All three of us feel great."

Navy Cmdr. Eugene Cernan said the thruster noise sounded "just like a minor pulse, just vibration."

Stafford and Cernan were awake a half hour ahead of schedule, but Navy Cmdr. John A. Young slept out the distance.

The astronauts began their day by giving a global weather report from their vantage point 107,000 miles above the earth.

They complained about the chlorine in their water supply and Stafford said: "The water is absolutely horrible. I got a horrible slug of chlorine. My mouth is still burning. John did too. I just want to put that on the record."

Before they retired, the Apollo 10 crew argued mildly with the ground about the necessity for rechlorinating the supply, but lost the argument. Ground controllers, after studying the problem, admitted today they had given the astronauts the wrong procedure for the rechlorination and that apparently a large concentration of the purifier had collected in the bottom of the tank.

The controllers told the astronauts to "open the potable tank inlet and take a bag and draw off a bag full of water—get rid of the chlorine concentration."

"We have your horoscopes for you," said capsule communicator Bruce McCandless. Then he and fellow astronaut Charles Duke began reading them.

"Tom, you have to concentrate mainly on finishing things that are already started," Duke told Stafford, a Virgo, "line up your plans; take inventory. The pace of the day should be moderate."

Cernan, a Pisces, was told to "make sure your home and workplace are free of hazards. Give thought to your driving and work habits. Do something nice for somebody you care about."

And for Young, a Libra, the message was "Take advantage of a relatively slow day to get a better perspective on your job. Look around, ask some questions and think about the answers from various angles."

Sunday's launch was accomplished with a precision and nonchalance unimagined when America first ventured into space eight years ago.

The spacecraft's television cameras took earthlings along as sightseers as they moved smoothly on their pathfinding mission for the landing of the first humans on the moon, scheduled for July.

It went like the script said: the launch of the Saturn 5 rocket, the insertion in orbit, the separation of spacecraft from booster rocket, the spacecraft's somersault—then its return to the booster to pluck out the lunar lander.

A ground controller said it was like a taped replay of earthbound practice sessions.

"That's all it is, babe," said Cernan.

Until Wednesday, when Apollo 10 nears the moon after hurtling 251,307 miles, its crew has relatively little to do.

The experiments that made this flight look easy were perfected step-by-step, mission-by-mission in America's 19 space trips beginning with Alan B. Shepard's 15 minute, 22 second flight May 5, 1961.

As the bullet-shaped ship sped from earth's grasp, hooked nose-to-nose with the ungainly space taxi that will take Stafford and Cernan close to the moon's surface Wednesday, its crewmen found time to share their exploits with TV viewers on the ground—and to exult over the sights.

Instead of transmitting only 15 minutes as planned, the color cameras went on four times for a total of 72 minutes.

The earth, partly swaddled in clouds and glowing brilliant blue and brown against the black velvet of space, prompted Cernan to exclaim:

"You blink your eyes and look out there; and you know it's three dimensional. But it's just sitting out there in the middle of nowhere. It's unbelievable."

Then he said:

"Just for the record, it looks like a pretty nice place to live"

Before they retired for the night, Stafford commented, "Sounds like we'll soon be 55,000 miles out."

"That's right," said mission control.

"Sounds like a long way from home, Joe," Stafford replied.

"That's right," said astronaut Joe Engle, the communicator on the night shift. "You guys covered a lot of ground today."

While they slept, their spacecraft traveled another 36,000 miles—slowing constantly from the 24,293 miles an hour that enabled it to leave earth's grasp.

The Apollo 10 crew was easily the chattiest to date.

At 3:34 p.m. Wednesday, the spacecraft begins circling the moon— duplicating the feat performed for the first time during the Christmastime flight of Apollo 8.

But Thursday morning at 10:30 a.m., if everything goes right, Stafford and Cernan will crawl through the nose of their spacecraft into the lunar lander.

Three hours later, Stafford and Cernan will cut the spiderlike craft from the mother ship and dip down to within 9.3 miles of the moon's surface in man's closest approach to another celestial body.

Viet Hill Battle Costly

DONG APBIA, Vietnam (AP) — The paratroopers came down from the mountain, their shirts dark green with sweat, their weapons gone, their bandages stained brown and red. With mud and blood.

Many cursed Lt. Col. Weldon Honeycutt, the hard-nosed battalion commander who sent three companies Sunday to take this 3,000-foot mountain just over a mile east of Laos and overlooking the shell-pocked A Shau Valley.

They failed and they uffered.

"That damn Black Jack won't stop unless he kills every damn one of us," said one of the 40 to 50 101st Airborne Division troopers who was wounded.

At least 10 died on the hill.

Honeycutt, 38, of Columbus, Ga., had been given an order: Take the mountain. It had been steadily pounded since May 10 by artillery, riot gas and more than 70 air strikes. It is believed to contain a North Vietnamese regimental headquarters and a supply cache.

By Sunday, the mountaintop was almost bare, its heavy jungle cover blasted apart by artillery, rockets, bombs and napalm. But still visible were the bunkers. They looked like evenly-spaced shell depressions.

U.S. intelligence said Sunday morning the mountain was held by "two companies, plus." In the afternoon, Honeycutt revised it upwards to two battalions that had infiltrated and reinforced the mountain stronghold Saturday night.

Since May 13 his battalion had suffered heavy casualties assaulting Dong Ap Bia—about 35 killed and some 180 wounded seriously enough to be evacuated.

As of Sunday, the mountain had been ground-assaulted 10 times by the 3rd Battalion, 187th Infantry.

The paratroopers had made it to the top three times, and three times intense enemy fire drove them back.

Spec. 4 Anthony Toll, 20, of Nashville, Ind., had made nine of those assaults against Dong Ap Bia, and the dark-haired, slender veteran of eight months in Vietnam was bitter.

"After all these air and artillery strikes, those gooks are still in there fighting. All of us are wondering why they just can't pull back and B52 that hill," he said.

"I've lost a lot of buddies up there. Not many guys can take it much longer."

Why take the hill?

"Well, for one thing, it overlooks a good deal of the A Shau Valley," said Honeycutt. "For another, you pull back and Charlie sure as hell will follow you right down and hit you."

Why do the North Vietnamese defend it so strongly?

"I can't say for sure. I wish I could," said the division commander, Maj. Gen. Melvin Zais. He said one option open to him was to back off and "bring in more firepower.

"But you hate to give up the ground you've gained," he added. "You'll have to fight just as hard to retake it. Backing off is one thing that commanders hate to do."

What about a massive B52 strike on Dong Ap Bia?

"Look, those gooks aren't stupid," said one intelligence officer. "They know exactly how much damage an arc light (B52 raid) does, how deep the bombs blow.

"They build their bunkers to withstand that. That's what they've done out there."

And possibly for that reason —to root out the enemy—the men of Honeycutt's battalion were sent up Sunday for their 10th assault against enemy bunkers, claymore mines, rocket-propelled grenades and a hail of bullets.

"Damn it, Cyclone Six, get those men spread out. They're all clustered up. You're getting paid to fight this war, not discuss it," Honeycutt snapped over the radio at one company commander working his men up a ridgeline.

Honeycutt was standing in a small clearing about 1,000 yards and slightly below Don Ap Bia's scarred crest. Small arms fire crackled continuously, punctuated by artillery shells and the buzzsaw of minigun fire from helicopter gunships.

F100 Supersabre Jets and two Vietnamese pro-driven Skyraiders bombed and strafed the mountain.

"We're running low on ammo," a company commander radioed down from the hill. "We're not making much headway."

Later, the wounded began trickling back from one side of the hill in twos and threes. One boy had his face two thirds covered by a bandage and blood ran off from his chin.

Another staggered in, his shirt off and a bloody bandage on his shoulder.

Then, as it always does during the afternoon in the A Shau Valley, a hard rain began to fall.

News Briefs

War Prisoner Release Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird called upon Hanoi today for prompt release of all American servicemen now held in North Vietnamese prison camps.

Failing this, Laird said the North Vietnamese government should at least provide for humane treatment for the several hundred Americans currently locked up in North Vietnamese camps.

"The North Vietnamese have claimed that they are treating our men humanely," the defense chief said. "I am distressed by the fact that there is clear evidence that this is not the case."

Laird said that by next month more than 200 American servicemen will have been listed either as prisoners of war or as missing in action for more than 3 1/2 years.

"This period of time is longer than any U.S. serviceman was held prisoner during World War II," he stated.

Appropriation Bills Cut

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Sen. J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville, Senate appropriations chairman, said today his committee finished cutting House passed appropriation bills over the weekend.

He said the total amount of the cuts had not been determined but the bills would be ready for presentation when the senate meets late today. Patterson was busy rechecking the figures this morning.

Patterson said he was not sure the bills would be taken up for debate today. That process is expected to be lengthy because of the numerous changes made by the Senate committee.

Lightning Causes Fire

Firemen were called 4:32 p.m. yesterday to extinguish flames in an air conditioner at 825 Lake Street. The fire apparently started from lightning. The fire was contained and minor damage was reported. It was at the residence of Harold Depro.

Final Concert Tomorrow

The Sikeston High School Music Department will present its final performance of the school year at 8 p.m. Tuesday. The Music Review, which has become a traditional concert through the years, will feature the two Concert Choirs, directed by Gordon Beaver, the High School Orchestra, directed by Richard Powell, and the two concert bands, under the direction of Keith Collins.

Each organization will present several numbers, and the final number will feature all the organizations massed together for the great Festival Number, MARCH OF FREEDOM, by Myrow. This finale number has also become the traditional ending for this annual program and will provide a thrilling finish for the musical school year.

The concert will be on the Outdoor Stage at the Music Building. In case of inclement weather the program will be held in the Field House.

Kindergarten Registration Set

CHARLESTON - Kindergarten Registration for the R-1 school district will be held today and Tuesday at the A. D. Simpson buidling from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Children must be five before Oct. 1, 1969 to be eligible. Parents should bring the birth certificate and health records.

One Killed, Seven Injured in Three-Vehicle Crash on 61

OLD APPLETON - Mack Rayford, 52, St. Louis, was killed last night in a three - vehicle crash four miles south of Old Appleton on Highway 61.

The Highway Patrol reported the tragedy occurred when Michael M. Jones, 24, St. Louis, was attempting to pass Rayford. Both cars were traveling north. The Jones car apparently ran headon into a south-bound 1967 GMC bus belonging to the Cape - St. Louis buslines. The bus was driven by James McIntosh, 46, Cape Girardeau. The Jones car, a 1965 Mercury, veered to the left after striking the bus and smashed into the Rayford car, a 1967 Mercury. Rayford was pronounced dead at the scene.

There was five passengers injured on the bus. None were believed serious. The only person from this area injured on the bus was Ruth Eifert, Scott City, right shoulder and possible back injuries.

Millie Rayford, 51, passenger in the deceased's auto, received possible internal injuries. Marva Jones, 22, passenger in Jones car, St. Louis, was severely cut on the left arm.

The patrol said Jones will be charged. The charge was not specified. Jones was not injured.

Dennis S. Montgomery, 33, St. Louis, was killed in a two-car crash Saturday afternoon on Highway 34 in Wayne County, Montgomery was a passenger in a car being driven west by Elby Kirk Jr., 35, St. Louis. The Kirk car, the patrol said, ran off the pavement several times at a high rate of speed and then slammed into a truck being driven east by Wayne Pichon, 18, Piedmont.

In an accident late Saturday afternoon on Interstate 57 west of Sikeston at the junction of route 105, Brenda Cathy, 20, Sikeston, received minor injuries. She was treated at the Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

The patrol said the accident occurred when Mrs. Cathy's husband, John Cathy, 19, was attempting to turn on Route 105 from I-57. Their car was struck by a car driven by Bernell LaPlant, East Prairie. Russell Stewart, Benton, a passenger in the Cathy car, also received minor injuries. The accident occurred about 6:45 p.m. Saturday.

Police Report
10 Arrests

Police this morning reported 10 persons were charged with offenses during the weekend.

Jimmy S. Staggs, 948 Lake, was charged with public intoxication, illegal possession of intoxicants and destroying city property.

John H. Hooper, Bertrand, was charged with drinking in public and littering.

Other persons arrested were James E. Wren Jr., 237 Watson, public intoxication; Greg A. Myer, 313 Virginia, careless and imprudent driving; Evelyn C. Hunter, 709 Mitchell, driving while intoxicated; Randall H. Hooe, Painton, careless and imprudent driving; Greg P. Harrington, 204 Felker, assault, W. D. Simmons, Matthews, public intoxication; W. D. Warren, Hazel Green, Ala., careless and imprudent driving, and James E. Robinson, 230 Felker, assault.

Live Color Earth Shots Treat for TV Viewers

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP)—The blue and white disc bobbed in the black vastness of space as an astronaut focused the camera. A zoom lens pulled the image closed, then pushed it away.

It was man's first live, full color television view of home as seen from outer space.

The three Apollo 10 astronauts surged nearer the moon with another color television broadcast on schedule for 4:04 p.m. EDT.

Space Center spokesmen said either the earth or moon might be televised and that more than one broadcast was possible.

Apollo 10 Commander Thomas P. Stafford had said before Sunday's liftoff that he and fellow astronauts John W. Young and Eugene A. Cernan would telecast from space whenever time allowed.

The spacemen beamed back three shows for a total of 72 minutes air time Sunday, including two unscheduled "specials" of earth.

They caught commercial TV off guard on the second bonus broadcast and appeared only on closed-circuit televison at Mission Control. It included a closeup view of the spaceship interior—so close that viewers could count the stars and stripes on the tiny American flag stitched to Young's sleeve.

The view from space was, as astronaut Cernan put it, "unbelievable."

First came remarkably clear views of Snoopy, the moon machine that will take two of the three men on man's closest inspection trip of the moon.

Colors during the first space view ranged from brilliant orange to steel gray. In one closeup, tiny numerals on Snoopy could be read with ease.

Then came the great show, man's first live, color view of his home planet from a spaceship speeding through space at 20,000 m.p.h.

"You know, you blink your eyes and look out there, and you know it's three dimensional, but it's just sitting out there in the middle of nowhere. It's unbelievable," Cernan reported.

The black emptiness of space —Cernan called it the "blackest black that you ever did see"— provided a backdrop to the earth's cloud-swathed continents and oceans.

The spacemen scanned the globe and reported on its wonders—the browns and greens of continents, the blues of the oceans, clouds like cotton candy.

"We see the Rocky mountains sticking out ... Can't tell if you have any smog in L.A. (Los Angeles) or not. But Alaska is pretty much socked in," one astronaut said.

They spotted the North Pole, Texas and Oklahoma.

Court Refuses Remap Review

Court Ruling Seriously Damages Marijuana Laws

WASHINGTON (AP) —The Supreme Court unanimously threw out today conviction of Timothy F. Leary, noted drug experimenter, on a finding that compliance with federal marijuana laws would violate his protection against self-incrimination.

The ruling, given by Justice John Marshall Harlan, seriously damaged—perhaps fatally—the marijuana laws.

The court reasoned that compliance with their provisions would expose Leary and others in the same situation to prosecution under state marijuana laws.

The decision follows the same reasoning the court used last year to riddle federal laws requiring gamblers to buy tax stamps and certain firearm possessors to register with the government.

The resignation of Abe Fortas last week from the high court had no effect on this important 8-0 ruling.

In other actions today, the court:

—Made it easier for stockholders to file damage suits charging corporation officials with fraud by refusing to review a lower court ruling that officials filing false or misleading statements may be liable for damages even when there is no evidence the statements were made to affect trading on the market.

—Refused to review a California Supreme Court decision that a topless entertainment act was protected by the U.S. Constitution as a form of expression. A lower court had ruled the act constituted indecent exposure and lewd and dissolute conduct in public.

Leary was convicted in 1966 of bringing about half an ounce of marijuana into the United States from Mexico. He was sentenced to from 5 to 30 years in prison.

His appeal attacked three federal laws that, while they did not make use of marijuana a federal crime, make supervision possible through a system of import controls and taxation.

The three laws make it a crime to (1) transport illegally imported marijuana knowing that the marijuana had been imported illegally, (2) transport marijuana without having paid a transfer tax and (3) acquire marijuana without having paid the transfer tax.

Harlan, speaking for the court, said once Leary acquired marijuana "He was confronted with a statute which on its face permitted him to acquire the drug legally, provided he paid the $100-per-ounce transfer tax and gave incriminating information, and simultaneously with a system of regulations which, according to the government, prohibited him from acquiring marijuana under any conditions."

Harlan said Leary "had ample reason to fear" that if he identified himself to the government as one who had obtained unregistered marijuana the information could be given to local enforcement officials.

This, Harland added, "would surely prove a significant link in a chain of evidence tending to establish his guilt under the state marijuana laws ..."

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
A TIME TO RELAX

Very shortly that midyear period known as summer, which starts officially on June 21, will be upon us. For many, it holds a threat of the impending tragedy of riots and strife. One can only pray that these forebodings will prove baseless, that summer will once again be as it should -- a time when the land is in full bloom.

In thousands of communities throughout the nation, people can look forward to a traditional summer. The lemonade stands will make their appearance along with the backyard hammocks and charcoal broilers. Long evenings will be spent in repose on porches and beneath favorite shade trees. The incomparable scenery of America will draw the usual millions of seashores and mountains.

In the days of dusty roads, barefoot boys and the old swimming hole, few were able to enjoy pilgrimages to faraway vacation spots. Those who do so now bear a heavy share of the responsibility for preserving the purity and beauty of our environment. Actually, summer is not different now than in the days of Mark Twain, and we should enjoy it.

The Globe Democrat editorial page says Friday May 16th.

"Nixon demonstrates statesmenship, just pattern for peace."

But Hanoi says to Hell with it. So what, if we want peace and to get out of Vietnam we better get ready to lower the boom on North Vietnam and wind up the thing with the obliteration of Hanoi.

And incidently any other little pipsqueak country like North Korea when they see how far they can go kicking us where we sit.

LAOS, THE FORGOTTEN, TERRIBLE WAR

When a person refers to the war in Viet Nam, he can get an audience of informed persons. But if he should mention the ear in Laos, he is likely to draw blank stares.

The war in Laos is the forgotten war, forgotten by everyone but the Laotians, a few Americans and the Communists.

They have good reason to know about it, because this war has virtually bankrupted the Laotian economy, drained off most of the young manpower and maimed and killed thousands.

Laos is a nightmare of political factions: the Communist Pathet Lao, which has no part in the government and is fighting with the North Vietnamese; the neutralists; and the rightists. The latter two run the government when they aren't fighting each other.

In the opinion of most American military men, Laos would be a terrible place to fight a war; yet, for years a war has been fought there on and off.

Each month, scores of Communist Pathet Lao and Royal Laotian Army troops die in the almost daily skirmishes that are fought in the deep Mountainous jungles in the eastern part of the country.

It is the eastern highlands of Laos that are so strategically important. Through them runs the Ho Chi Minh Trail, along which the North Vietnamese move men and supplies to South Viet Nam. To Protect it, the Reds cut off a buffer zone which is guarded by Red troops.

In the north, the Communists control most of Houa Phan and Phong Saly provinces bordering North Viet Nam. A recent campaign was a drive against the Royalists in the Bolovens Plateau area of southern Laos, near the Cambodian border.

According to a Royal Army spokesman, an average of 300 Pathet Lao troops are being killed each month in battle. He places government losses at about 20 a month. But while Western military attaches in Laos say the Communist losses easily could be as high as the figures given, they say that the number of government troops killed are at least five times the official figure.

Americans die there, too. They try to cut the Ho Chi Minh Trail, but no official acknowledgement of these casualties is made, either in Vientiane, Laos, or in Washington,

There have been no reports on the number of bombers which have been lost over Laos or of the number of special forces troops who have been killed while fighting.

One U.S. Air Force officer has described the Tchepone road junction in east Central Laos as "the most bombed target in all Southeast Asia."

No one can predict when the 20 years of intermittent warfare in Laos will end. But everyone, from Premier Souvanna Phouma down to the lowest Laotian private, knows that only North Viet Nam's preoccupation in South Viet Nam has spared Laos' entry into a full-fledged Viet Nam type war.

The reason why Laos would be such a bad place to fight is its mountainous terrain and jungle. There are only 3,450 miles or roads.

THE RESTIVE MIDDLE CLASS

Inflation has been described as a tax on the poor and the elderly, but evidence mounts that it is beginning to hurt the average wage-earner. The great American middle class is having trouble making ends meet, and its mood is turning ugly.

Pete Hamill calls it the revolt of the White Lower Middle Class. "The working class earns its living with its hands or its backs," he writes. "Its members do not exist on welfare payments; they do not live in abject, swinish poverty, nor in safe, remote suburban comfort. They earn between $5,000 and $10,000 a year. And they can no longer make it in New York."

Their grievances seem to be centering -- in New York, at least -- on antipoverty and welfare programs for Negroes and on the failure of local government to provide services to match galloping tax rates. Gus Tyler calls it "the revolt of Mr. Middle."

A union wage study released on April 13 showed how higher taxes and rising prices had virtually wiped out pay increases obtained by New York City workers between 1965 and 1968. Of the 24 industry groupings studied, workers in 12 of them suffered a net loss in weekly purchasing power during the three-year period.

One example: A construction industry worker gross $170.69 weekly in 1965 and $201.12 in 1968 -- an increase of $30.43 a week. But his real net gain after higher taxes and inflation was only $1.36 per week.

Clearly some of the impetus for tax reform is stemming from the desire of the average worker to get the tax burden shared more equitably. Playing the tax loopholes has become a science for the wealthy and their lawyers, while the little man is lucky to save $20 on his tax bill at the nearest H&R Block office. The average taxpayer now spends two hours and 34 minutes out of every eight working to pay his local, state and federal taxes.

"Adam Smith," the ubiquitous and frequently on-target philosopher of the money marts, has invented a term for the new kind of paper wealth being created in America today. He called it Supercurrency. This could be money earned in a company which goes public and sells at thirty times the earnings.

"So they have thirty times as much money as we poor people who only earn the money and put it in the bank," writes Smith. "The poor innocents among us will not know there is a superior currency around. They will still think the green stuff in their wallets is money, and they will be bewildered."

A bewildered public is a potentially explosive one, and warnings already have been posted of a "taxpayers' revolt." Some citizens, moreover, are making the connection between inflation and the war in Viet Nam which, according to many economists, is the root cause of rising prices and the growing cost of government at all levels.

Something is in the wind. For the first time in years national spending proposals such as the antiballistic missile system and the supersonic transport and being subjected to close ECONOMIC as well as technological and political analysis. For the Nixon administration the big question of 1969 may be not how to deal with the Russians or Hanoi but how to pacify restive American wage-earners.

CASE HISTORY

You may be interested in a hassle they had in Port Orchard, Washington a few months back. Officials at the South Kitsap High School there let it be known that they were considering installing a fully automated cafeteria. That brought out the populace. The youngsters wouldn't get balanced meals, they said: The lunch would be cold, and not the needed hot foods and heaven help us, the school would lose its federal lunchroom assistance payments.

But, the officials went ahead. That federally assisted hot lunch program wasn't really a howling success anyway, since only about 20 per cent of the 1,135 students used the lunchroom at noon. It took five cooks to prepare the meals, and even with federal assistance the losses were staggering. So what happened?

The school cafeteria looks and operates like an automat. There's a wide variety of food available, far beyond anything possible under the federally assisted program: hot soup, pastries, ice cream, bevera ges, hot dogs and hamburgers as well as assorted cold sandwiches, freshly baked cookies and cake, and a daily special. Students pop a coin into a slot and take their choice. Three times as many students use the cafeteria at lunch time. There's less waste and spilling in the cafeteria. The official lunch period has been shortened. Two cooks do what five used to do.

More important, school officials have found it worth while to keep the cafeteria open most of the day. Many pupils have breakfast in the cafeteria before the school day begins, and many others pop in for between classes snacks. When there are after-school activities, the cafeteria is a meeting place.

About the balanced meals--hear what the school's principal has to say on that: "You talk about balanced meals. We used to see the pupils eating part of their hot lunch and throwing the rest away. I think everyone likes to pick and choose from a variety. This way, the pupil picks what the likes and doesn't waste any."

Federal assistance?

Who needs it? Patronage is up 300 per cent without it.

Doc. Duncan Says

Except for the fact people hang on to the two old parties that are in reality only one party, with one aim, that is to divide the people and perpetulate just what we have now. Some folks like what we have now but most of them are on taxpayers payroll or don't take the time to lay aside their worn out ides and look reality to scare in the face, except for that we could have an honest nation like we once had.

H.L. Hunt Says

INDIVIDUAL INITIATIVE

The words of Liberty and Freedom have an intrinsic beauty, reminding us of all which is good and to be desired in our country. These words also carry a ring of obligation and duty to our country, for Liberty and Freedom were bequeathed to us through the toil, sacrifice and determination of our forebears.

The individual initiative and profit motive system, which is the favorite whipping boy of all the left siders, is basic in preserving liberty and freedom. A citizen must be afforded economic liberty, as well as political liberty, if he is to truly enjoy freedom. Economic liberty carries its own obligations and responsibilities for if used inopportunely or unwisely financial reverse will surely follow.

The term "individual initiative and profit motive system" is highly preferable to "free enterprise," for there is nothing free involved. Too much lip service has been paid to free and too little to the enterprise part. A person's financial reward comes from his application of effort and enterprise, requiring work, thinking, time and personal dedication. The only thing free is the Freedom to make the effort required and thereby hope to reap the rewards of his enterprise which are is profits. Each individual, seeking to improve his standing in life through his personal application of his efforts and enterprise, with the liberty to do so, will cause progress in this Republic in future years just as it has in the past, which has caused us to become the greatest nation in the long history of the world. Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

Drew Pearson says: Negro History is in the making; Charles Evers chose to build rather than tear down; rampaging militants are harmful to all minorities

Washington
May 17, 1969

Dear Joe:

Two events happened in the past week which someday you and other boys of your age will look back on and say that they made history. One was the election of Charles Evers, a negro, to be the first mayor of a Mississippi town in 100 years. The second was the way a negro mayor, Walter Washington in Washington, D.C., and Luke Moore, the Negro U.S. Marshal, handled a crowd of rowdy and rebellious negro students at Howard University, a largely negro institution.

Both events show that despite some discouraging racial setbacks on the University campuses, we are making progress.

Charles Evers is a man who is the exact opposite of the young black militants who are tearing our campuses apart today. Some years ago his brother Medgar was shot and killed from ambush while putting his car in the garage, all because Medgar had urged voting rights for negroes.

Charles had every readon to be bitter about his brother's death. Most people would have resorted to revenge and violence. But Evers applied the doctrine of love

Patiently he went about the job of convincing white men in Mississippi that the black man had a right to vote; and of convincing black men that they should vote. He had a very difficult time doing this, because negroes were scared to death hen they came into the voting places. And they had reason to be. For in one town alone--McComb, Miss., -- in the summer of 1964 two churches were blown up and 20 negro homes damaged. I went down there that summer to bail out 30 young students who were arrested when they protested these bombings.

But Evers kept his head. He kept plugging away for the black man's right to vote. Gradually he began to win. The Congress, the courts sided with him. He put on a tremendous educational campaign among his own people to get them to register.

I was with Evers in Chicago shortly after he had won the right to eat in a white restaurant. We were raising money to send 20,000 turkeys to poor people for Christmas in Mississippi and I took him to he pump room of the hotel ambassador east, one of the more fashionable eating places in Chicago. The menu was in French.

Evers studied it quizzically. "That's the penalty of integration," he finally said. "You have to eat the white man's food."

Finally last week, he was elected mayor of the little town of Fayette, the first negro mayor elected in Mississippi since the carpet-baggers and the negro bosses went too far in reconstruction days.

--Will History Repeat?--

The rioting at Howard University and Cornell and the city college of New York where young negroes have burned and pillaged and disrupted is very similar to the excesses of those post-civil war days. And just as the highhandedness of some negroes after the civil war caused the loss of negro gains and sympathy for almost 100 years, so the excesses at universities today is likely to do the same thing.

When a minority of either black or whites paralyze a great university, when they rampage through libraries that I have taken years to collect, when they steal private papers from the files of college presidents, when they deny the right to learn to the majority of students who have paid for that right, then they hurt not only themselves but the goals of all minorities.

What the students of today don't realize is that it took years to put across federal aid to education, but it would only take a couple of days debate to Congress to end it.

I have heard Mrs. Agnes Meyer, who has crusaded for years for better public schools, tell how she went to see President Eisenhower in 1953, shortly after he was elected, to try to persuade him to push aid to education. He gave her a lecture against federal interference with schools and colleges.

Later, Sen. Joe Clark of Pennsylvania pushed an aid-to-education bill and it got a tie vote in the Senate. Vice President Nixon was then called upon to break the tie and he voted against education.

So, for more than ten years, Congress refused to vote funds for schools and colleges. And it was not until Lyndon Johnson, a southerner, became President that he changed this. Since then we have made the greatest progress in history toward better education--until this year.

And this year the student revolts have seriously set education back.

Another thing which the black militants don't realize is that when the state or the federal government gives them a free or cut-rate education, the state has a right to give some guidance regarding their studies. What the State needs is not Negroes educated in a lot of snap courses such as black studies, but negro doctors, lawyers and engineers.

Yet among Negro militants closed down the best Negro schools of medicine and dentistry at Howard university for no good reason at all. It hurt them and it set back progress toward the goals which they have been trying to long to achieve.

There was on healthy development, however. When the black militants refused to end their sit-in, two responsible Negroes, Mayor Washington and U. S. Marshal Moore, moved in to throw them out. And they did it far more efficiently than did the police at Columbia last year or the police at Harvard this year.

Which proves that qualified Negroes when given responsibility can and do excercise it. And the nation's greatest mistake was in not giving it to them sooner.

So I congratulate the people of Fayette, Miss., for electing a qualified Negro as Mayor and I congratulate Charles Evers for announcing as his motto, "Let's replace hate with love."

All this is why I say that someday your generation will look back on last week's achievements as a milestone in history. Love, Your Grandfather

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

White House On Spot:
Reuther-Teamsters Alliance Massing Forces For Triple Front Assault

Washington, D.C. -- From the Teamsters' marble mansion sitting eyeball to eyeball with the Capitol comes the word that they are beefing up their culture and culturing up their beef. The Brotherhood plans to turn a Miami Beach hotel into a labor school and educate its officials in blocs of a hundred. 'Tis no doubt Walter Reuther's influence. In turn, Mr. Reuther, a self-made intellectual, has learned to use muscle, albeit political.

It is not yet public, but the auto union chief has convinced Labor Secretary George Shultz to greet the new Alliance for Labor Action when it launches its new labor federation here Monday, May 25. Mr. Reuther and Teamsters acting president Frank (Fitz) Fitzsimmons privately interpret this as a fine political victory. Mr. Shultz's speech does not have White House clearance but it is a sign of the coup the redhead and "Fitz" have planned as a surprise to the enemy -- Mr. George Meany and the 13.2 million-member AFL-CIO.

Mr. Meany, who has been meeting with his high council here, has let the while House and Mr. Shultz know that he's far from estatic over the Secretary of Labor's acceptance of Mr. Reuther's and Mr. Fitzsimmons' invitation to help open the first ALA convention. It is Mr. Meany's icy view that the United Automobile Workers is the "American splitter organization . . a breakaway organization which aims to split . . a national trade union center and set up a labor federation dual and hostile to it (to the AFL-CIO -- VR)."

Those who know Mr. Meany know him as a crusty though inwardly shy, stand-up friend and an implacable, unforgiving opponent. Neither he nor the powerful AFL-CIO leaders soon will forget that Mr. Shultz has agreed to bring the prestige of a cabinet member to the auto union-teamsters alliance.

Mr. Shultz is an innocent victim, however, of cataclysmic labor collision. He feels that he could not turn down the invitation from wo powerful unions with a combined membership of 3.6 million. He will go but he does not plan to consort. He does plan to retort to Mr. Reuther's attack on President Nixon's farm labor policies. Mr. Reuther referred to these precepts as "shocking and disgraceful." These polices are, in fact, quite a revolutionary breakthrough, most experts believe.

Despite the unpublicized, behind-the-scenes duelling, the May 26 movement's gathering of some 500 delegates and another 500 observers and officials will be anticlimactic The excitement is in the answer to a question put recently by my friend, the dockwalloper bantam Teddy Gleason, the direct-to-the-point president of the international longshoremen's union.

"What the hell are the Teamsters going to do with Reuther?" Mr. Gleason asked in a recent dialogue. Part of the answer is knowledgeable but unprintable.

Point is, what are they going to do together now they have headquarters, (on the fourth floor of the McLachlen Bank Building, 11th Street and G Northwest), $4.5 million in guaranteed dues peel-off and a $6 million (pledged) strike fund?

The answer is in a pitchfork-pointed strategy.

Mr. Reuther wants to rock his membership from 1.6 million to everal million by moving into he building and construction field -- which is the wave of the future's future. Trillions will be spent rehousing and rebuilding America. There have been radical changes in housing materials and a revolution in building technology. A Southwestern hotel was constructed several years ago in preassembled completed units. A full bedroom, with beds made, was simply lowered by a crane into each floor along specific corridors, for example.

So Mr. Reuther wants assembly line housing construction in factories away from the site so his own union members can work on them. He believes he has convinced Housing and Urban Development Secretary George Romney of this technique's maximum feasibility.

There you have it. Mr. Reuther's union men will prefabricate the housing and Mr. Fitzsimmons' teamsters will haul it away.

Much of this will cut into the jurisdiction of the equally powerful 3.5 million member AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Dept.

Once again dockwalloper Gleason puts it poignantly:

"What the hell is jurisdiction? It's up for grabs in the labor movement."

The building trades aren't easily or peacefully raided.

On a econd front, the Reuther-Fitzsimmons team will search out "underorganized areas – such as the Du Pont plants or the oil installations in which there are many small independent unions.

The Reuther-Fitzsimmons combine will go to the AFL-CIO or independent union in the field and say: look here, you have not moved into all this territory; come with us, we'll give you money, manpower and political muscle and help you "organize the unorganized."

If the unions go along -- and many already approached have rebuffed the offer-- they'll leave the AFL-CIO and join the Alliance. If not, their jurisdiction will be raided by the Alliance brethren.

That will mean more war.

Finally, the combine plans to move into the inner cities, try to organize the black workers, the Puerto Ricans and the Chicanos (Mexican-Americans) into community unions. If this succeeds, these unions will be the base for the competition with the traditional unions. It could get awkward.

It could fulfill the dream of the 61-year-old Walter Reuther -- the dream of once again leading the masses as did the now desperately ill 89-year-old King Coal, John L. Lewis.

And it could be Mr. Reuther's nightmare -- because, in Mr. Gleason's graphic words: "What the hell do the teamsters want with Reuther?"

MR. AND MRS. HARRY W. NOLES celebrated their golden wedding anniversary May 11 with a reception at the North Acres General Baptist church.

Reception Held On 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Noles, 517 Smith, were the honored guests at a reception May 11 to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary. The reception, given by children of the couple, T. A. Noles of Sikeston and Mrs. Helen Holcomb of Lebanon, Ill., was held from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. in the North Acres General Baptist church.

The Rev. Robert Jones offered an anniversary prayer and Violet Jones read a poem, "Home". Bud Duke led the guests in the hymn "Tis So Sweet To Trust in Jesus", accompanied by Mrs. Herbert Lynxwiller.

The table was decorated with gold cloth overlaid with lace. Serving as a centerpiece was a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums, a gift. Other gifts were displayed on another table decorated with a gold cloth, also. Other decorations were in keeping with this theme.

Refreshments of punch, cake, nuts and mints were served.

The couple was married May 11, 1919 at Lilbourn. Noles retired as a carpenter ten years ago. Both are members of the North Acres General Baptist church. They have five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Out of town guests were from St. Louis; Saybrook, Ill.; Gibson City, Ill.; Columbia, Ill.; Atica, Ill.; and Bell City.

Mr. and Mrs. William Skelly, 321 Greer, were surprised with an anniversary reception May 3, on their 22nd anniversary.

Hosts for the occassion were their daughters, Mrs. Mary Ann Hudson of Sikeston and Mrs. Oma Diamond of Benton. Assisting was Mrs. Frankie Summers.

The table was covered with a pink cloth. An arrangement of pink and red flowers and red candles centered the table. A crystal punch bowl and white and pink cake with a bride and groom also adorned the table.

Friends called in the afternoon, bringing gifts and best wishes.

Mr. and Mrs. Skelly were married in 1947 at Piggott, Ark. by a justice of the peace.

Biography Is Predicted Best-Seller

LONDON (AP) — Britain's latest historian is a lissome blonde society hostess who looks more like a movie star than a bookworm.

Lady Antonia Fraser's 613page biograph of Mary, Queen of Scots, hasn't hit the bookstands yet, but critics are predicting it will be a best-seller.

Lady Antonia, 36, is the Earl of Longford's daughter, a leader of fashion, writer of books on dolls and toys, a television personality and wife of a member of Parliament, Hugh Fraser.

She is also the mother of six children.

The biograph was an obsession, she says. She has been fascinated by the Stuart queen since childhood.

"It's a very exciting story," she says of the queen who married her husband's murderer and was beheaded in 1587. "It's got all the right ingredients—sex, murder, intrigues, lovers and bloodshed."

Lady Antonia gave birth to the book and her sixth baby at about the same time. That raised a few problems. She fainted while doing research in the British Museum, fell over while she was carrying heavy indexes, and then dislocated her neck from marathon bouts of typing. When it came to writing about Mary's execution, she wept.

"It sounds very affected, but somehow I felt we had been together for three years and it seemed so terrible that she should have to be going through all this," she told an Evening Standard columnist.

Women's Club Activities

NEW MADRID — The Woman's Club met at 2 p.m. Thursday at the New Madrid high school cafeteria. Twenty-one members and five guests, Mrs. Carl Meredith, Mrs. Ethel Dutton, Mrs. Willis French, Mrs. Charles Baker and Mrs. Richard St. Mary Sr., attended. Mrs. Robert Seemann, president, presided.

Following opening of the meeting with the pledge of allegiance and club collect, Mrs. William Tollison gave a devotional.

Roll call was answered by giving a favorite style.

Mrs. Seemann congratulated the club for the first place prize-winning float in the barrow show parade.

Mrs. Herman Crisler announced a book, "The Field Is Women," by E. E. Reynolds, has been placed in the library in memory of Mrs. E. H. Riley. A book in memory of Miss Mabel Mecklem will also be given to the library.

The club is sponsoring Girl Scouts Teena Akins and Ann Smith to Camp Latonka, and a contribution has been made to the Raymond T. Sides memorial scholarship fund.

A committee of Mrs. Ralph Anderson, chairman, Mrs. Gene French, Mrs. Scott Ruby and Mrs. Seemann, was appointed to select a first place winner and three runners-up to receive commendations in a Business for Beauty program, sponsored by GFWC and Cities Service Oil Corp.

Achieving 895 honor points, the club received a first place award at the district convention. The state convention will be held at Kansas City May 21-23. The national convention will be at Columbus, Ohio.

Hospitality Committee members reported six new families were visited last month.

A committee of Mrs. William Tollison, hairman, Mrs. George Hartwell and Mrs. Francis Baird was named to select nominees for the Outstanding Young Women of America, aged 21-35.

Mrs. John Edwards reported on the condition of city park playground equipment. Tentative plans were made to repair or purchase new equipment in cooperation with the city.

Mrs. St. Mary reported the interior of the community building has been painted. A new commercial vacuum cleaner for the upkeep of the floor has been purchased.

Mark Baker, who made the sophomore pilgrimage to Jefferson City, gave an account of his trip. He was presented a certificate by Mrs. Seemann.

Mrs. May Edwards introduced Home Economics students who modeled garments they have made. The fashion review included 34 garments ranging from sportswear to formal evening gowns.

Refreshments of cake, punch and nuts were served by co-hostesses, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Gene Copeland, Mrs. C. F. Hollopeter and Mrs. Tollison.

Mrs. Leo Hedgepeth will be hostesses June 12 for a potluck dinner and fun night, with no planned program.

The Sikeston Young Homemakers met April 28 for their monthly meeting with Mrs. Melvin Cokenour. Five members and two visitors were present. Regina Jones was introduced to the members.

The program for the evening was on family life in Germany.

President Nancy Byrd presided over the short business meeting.

Attendance prize was won by Mrs. Yvonne Odom.

The next meeting will be held May 26 with Mrs. Jan Kuchle.

The King's Daughters class of the First Baptist church met with Mrs. Roy Richard with 12 members and one guest, Miss Jeannie Lou Richard, present.

Mrs. Jim Nickel gave the opening prayer. Mrs. Gerda Harrison presided at the business. Reports from the treasurer and scretary were given. All group captains also gave their reports. There were six 100 per cent members for the month of April.

Mrs. Edyth Spidell gave a talk on a prayer retreat.

Refreshments of coffee, sodas, and cake were served.

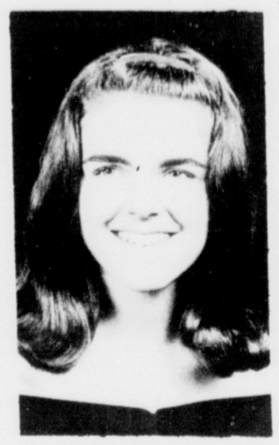

The June meeting will be held at Clayton Park with a potluck supper.

APAKAW Takes Diane Taylor

Diane Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ewart Taylor of Sikeston, was one of 32 members initiated into the APAKAW Honorary Society for freshman women at Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau, at a dinner held in their honor.

To be eligible for membership in APAKAW a student must have a least a 3.0 grade average. Members are chosen on the basis of leadership, community service, campus activities and scholastic achievement. Members of APAKAW are initiated during their freshmen year and are active through their sophomore year at college.

Miss Taylor also received the honor of being elected secretary of her pledge class of Alpha Delta Pi Sorority.

Dog Owners Feel Love Is More Important Than Rug

Dear Ann Landers: Your advice to Sad Eyes made my 10-year-old cry. How could you be so heartless as to suggest that "Sweetie," a nine-year-old dog who had been a family pet since puppyhood, be given away? Just because a dog ruins a few carpets is no excuse to break a child's heart. And do you know what this would do to Sweetie? He would surely die of loneliness. Please change your advice before you are deluged with letters from people who will take your hide off. —Wyoming

Dear Wy: It's too late. The deluge has started. And the readers are against me 100 to 1. Read on:

Dear Ann: Your advice that an indoor dog be given to a farmer is typical of the dumb things city people come with. Farmers are already overrun with dog owners who don't know the first thing about animals.

I disagree that a nine-year-old dog cannot be housebroken. Perhaps not in his customary surroundings, but I'll bet if they build a dog house and enforce some new rules, Sweetie could be taught to mind his manners. — Mrs. G.H.G.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 10 years old. I have a dog. When he wets on my mother's carpet I take some paper towels and blot it up. I use my foot. Then I pour white vinegar on the spot. It fixes everything. — Dog Lover

Dear Ann: Our family refuses to believe that you consider wall-to-wall carpeting more important than a child's love for his dog. We have antique oriental rugs in our home and the spots made by our nervous little poodle and our lazy golden retriever has added character to these priceless floor coverings. Shame on you, Ann. — Pittsburgh

Dear Ann: Your suggestion that a dog who has been a house pet for six years be given to a farmer was not a humane solution. To ask an aged dog to adjust to new people and new environment is unreasonable. It would be much better for the dog if they put him to sleep. — M.Y. of Williamsport

Dear Ann Landers: Are you on vacation? Please come back. I can't believe you gave that stupid answer. So the dog did a few things on the rug. So what? The notion that is perfectly O.K. to get rid of anything that presents a challenge is exactly what's wrong with society today. If you don't like school you drop out. If you don't like marriage you bust it up. If you don't like a job you quit. And now Ann Landers comes along and says if you can't housebreak your mutt give him to a farmer. Think it over, Toots. — Winninpeg

Dear Winnie: I have thought it over and the next time I get a letter asking for advice about a dog I'm going to consult people who have dogs. Rugs I know something about but I'm no authority on dogs and my answer proved it.

Is alcoholism a disease? How can the alcoholic be treated? Is there a cure? Read the booklet "Alcoholism — Hope And Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

SIKESTON'S Art Jackson, (right) placed fourth in the 100 yard dash Saturday in the State Class L track and field meet held in Columbia with a 9.9 time. Mike Chavis of Kansas City Southeast and Sumner's Glen Love (both at the left) placed one, two in the event.

Brock Leads 6-5 Victory; Cards Take Series2-1

Lou Brock sparked the St. Louis Cardinals to a 6-5 victory over San Diego Sunday, while the Kansas City Royals ran into too much Mike Cuellar and bowed to Baltimore, 5-0.

Brock lashed three hits, driving in a run with one of them, and scored a run after picking off his 12th stolen base of the season against the Padres.

Despite his heroics, the Cardinals had to sweat it out as the Padres rallied for three runs in the last of the eighth inning to trim the final margin to a single run.

Reliever Ron Willie came out of the bullpen to put down the San Diego uprising, then Gary Waslewski finished up for him in the ninth to protect Dave Giusti's third victory in seven decisions.

San Diego knocked out Giusti in the eighth on a double, two triples and a sacrific fly.

Brock beat out an infield single, stole second, continued to third on an overthrow and scored on an error in the seventh to give the Cards a 6-2 lead. Hits by Joe Hague and Brock had broken a 2-2 tie and given the Cards the lead for good in the third.

Cuellar, a former National Leaguer who is helping establish Baltimore as the American League favorite this year, evened his record at 4-4 with a two-hit shutout over the Royals, his second whitewash. Only Juan Rios' first-inning single and Ed Kirkpatrick's secondinning triple marred Cuellar's performance.

The Orioles broke up a pitching duel between Cuellar and rookie Dick Drago with a threerun rally in the seventh. Cuellar tripled home one of those runs, and the other two scored on Dave Johnson's single and an error. Boog Powell smacked his fourth home run in the eighth.

Both the Cardinals and Royals are idle today.

KC Central Wins State Track Title

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Kansas City Central won its fifth straight state Class L outdoor high school track championship Saturday, but not as easily as expected.

Central had 34 points, Kansas City Southeast 29, Kirkwood 17½, St. Louis Northwest 17.

Harvey Greer, Central coach, followed the triumph with the announcement that he is resigning at the end of the term to begin study toward a doctorate in education at the University of Kansas. During his tenure, Central won 87 meets in the last five years, against only one defeat and one tie.

Kennett scored 12 points for fifth place, with Greg Buys posting firsts in the Discus and Shot Put and David Bruce placing fourth in the two-mile run.

Four Southeast Missouri teams scored a total of 25 points with Kennett's 12 leading the way. Poplar Bluff scored eight, Sikeston 4½ and Charleston ½ point.

Sikeston's Art Jackson and David Newberry scored for the Bulldogs, with Jackson placing fourth in the 100-yard dash and Newberry third in the Pole Vault. The Dogs' 880-yard relay team failed to place but set a new school record as did Newberry in the pole vault.

Mike Robins scored Charleston's point by tying for fifth in the 440 yard dash.

FITTING FAREWELL

GOSPORT, England (AP) — Capt. Rudland Cairns, a foxhunter and farmer in his spare time, has said goodby to the royal navy, in sporting style.

He rode out of his base here after 35 years with the navy in an old stage coach as a navy band played and a bugler blew fanfares on a post horn.

DAVID NEWBERRY of Sikeston is shown as he attempts to clear the 13 foot, eight 5/8 inch mark in the pole vault event during Saturday's state meet in Columbia. Newberry vaulted the mark and took third in the event, setting a school Pole Vault record.

UNVEILING the sign which designated the Parma high school baseball field as Jackson Field are Bob Lewis and David Sharp. Both were instrumental in the baseball building program and were among the group that initiated the drive to name the field after Jackson.

Ron Jaynes'

SPORTS CORNER

Parma fielded its first high school baseball team in three seasons, and will have its first summer baseball program since 1960. The man who has been instrumental in making this all possible - Forest Jackson - was honored by having a new field named after him.

Jackson came to Parma as its new superintendent of schools in 1968. He immediately set out to get a field ready for a summer baseball program, which has been lacking in the community for nine years.

City officials and citizens of the community tried unsuccessfully for eight years to persuade the school system to newly relight the field so a summer baseball program could be properly run, but were unable to get the ball rolling until Jackson took over.

Jackson was named commissioner of the Parma summer baseball program and has set up four little league teams, four pee-wee league teams, and two Babe Ruth squads.

In a showing of their appreciation for his efforts, citizens and school officials named the field Jackson field in brief ceremonies Friday.

Jackson will become superintendent of Kelly schools in June, leaving Parma with a new baseball field and a desire to keep the ball rolling.

FORREST JACKSON, superintendent of Parma schools, was honored Friday when citizens and members of the school named the newly remodeled high school baseball field after him. He was instrumental in obtaining the new lighting, bleachers and concession stand.

When the basketball season ended at Brigham Young, leading scorer Doug Howard turned up as the varsity first baseman. He had only two days of baseball practice before the first game.

Jayhawks Win Big 8 Track Meet

By LEW FERGUSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Stan Whitley admitted that long jumping — even when he sets records—had gotten to be something of a "drag" to him, so he went out and took third place in the 220-yard dash, fourth in the 100 and ran on Kansas' winning 440-yard relay team Saturday.

That gave the scholarly-looking Jayhawk senior from Washington, D.C., a hand in 34 of KU's record-smashing 180½ points in the 62nd Big Eight Conference track and field championships, which ended Saturday at Iowa State University.

"I like the sprints just about as well as the jumping," said Whitley, who added a fourth place in the triple jump to his list of accomplishments. "Jumping is my No. 1 event, but there may be more of a thrill in running against somebody. Jumping is such an individual thing."

For his performance, Whitley was named the meet's outstanding individual. He won the Henry F. Schulte Memorial Award, given annually by the Omaha World - Herald in memory of the late Nebraska track coach.

"It's a great honor," Whitley said. "This meet has a lot of outstanding people in it."

Whitley won the long jump in 26 feet, 1 inch Friday, setting one of only two records rung up during this year's Big Eight meet. The other was a 192-8 heave in the discus by Kansas' Doug Knop.

Despite the presence of the most talented field in conference history, the weather cut down on performances in Saturday's 15-event and no more records were set.

An overnight rain Friday night left workmen in a scramble to get the track dried out, and it was not good on Saturday. Some runners said it felt like they were running on sand, so loose was the footing.

The weather was a chilly 50 degrees, heavily overcast and with a brisk north wind blowing, hardly conducive to record setting.

Jim Ryun accomplished his purpose of wiping out the memory of quitting in a half - mile race at the Drake Realsy by winning the mile in 4:08.9 and the half-mile in 1:48.7. While neither time broke the conference record and Ryun departs the collegiate scene, ironically, without holding either record in the Big Eight, his times were remarkable.

He got stomach cramps while running the mile and said they did not abate until his final lap. He coasted to victory in the mile.

In the half-mile, Ryun stumbled about 200 yards into the race to fall 15 yards behind the leaders. He stormed past them on the final curve, however, to win easily.

"I really thought I could run faster," he said, "and for that reason I'm disappointed. Of course I wanted the records. I wanted to run a four-minute mile but I got the stomach cramp about 300 yards into the race. I felt terrible until the final lap."

With Karl Salb, Steve Wilhelm and Knop finishing 1-2-3 in the shot, Ryun's victories and Whitley's performance, Kansas broke its own point-total record of 173 set in 1955.

Realtor Week Observed Here

"Home Ownership – Foundation of the Nation" has been selected as the theme of Realtor Week, May 18-24, 1969, Charles M. Mitchell, president of the Sikeston Board of Realtors, announced today.

The Sikeston Board joins with more than 87,000 Realtors throughout the nation in community - wide observances and activities directing attention to the professional services they render and their efforts to help solve the major problems of our cities and towns.

He pointed out that this slogan merits special attention as a stabilizing force in an era marked by problems ranging from riots and a sagging respect for law and order to soaring housing demand and interest rates.

Home ownership is enjoyed by more than two-thirds of the families across the nation, Mitchell said, a dream Realtors have aided materially in attaining. This record of home ownership is matched by few other countries in the world, but it can become an even greater boon as it is extended to increasing numbers of low-income families through special programs and efforts. This goal is just one of those incorporated in the Make America Better Program of Realtors.

The National Association of Real Estate Boards, one of the country's largest trade and professional associates, was founded in 1908. Maintaining offices in Chicago and Washington, it furnishes Realtors with the latest information on real estate developments, mortgage conditions, economic trends, latest techniques, and other business factors. The Sikeston Board of Realtors was founded and joined NAREB on Nov. 5, 1955.

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Rhodesia is to switch to the metric system of weights and measures and wants to make the change "not later than" neighboring South Africa, Commerce and Industry Minister Jack Mussett announced. Rhodesia has close trade and other ties with South Africa, which plans to introduce the metric system by 1971.

Bell City to Clean-Up

BELL CITY — The M.Y.F. of the Bell City United Methodist Church and the pastor, The Rev. John Maynard, attended the regular sub- district meeting at Essex, Monday evening. Those attending were Max and Terry Eakin, John and Mickael Johnson, Donna and Phil Stephens, Rhonda Weeks and Bill Knoderer.

Max Eakin was elected President of the sub-district, after serving as vice-president the past year, other officers elected were: Miss Suzanne Allen of Parma, vice president, Miss Karen Tulley of Sadler's Chapel, secretary and treasurer and the Rev. Maynard was re-elected minister counselor for the second year. The Bell City group were awarded the Attendance Banner for the second consecutive time.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Limbaugh and co-owners, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Sander and Mr. nd Mrs. L. A. Schuerberg of Sikeston have sold their farm holdings near Noble Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Sander and son, Chris, who have lived on the farm, will move to the Limbaugh Farms, near Bell City and assume management.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Brown, St. Louis, were weekend guests of their daughter in - law and grandson, Mrs. Otto Dietrich and son, also her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James DeLay.

S-Sgt. and Mrs. James C. Deck and sons, who had recently returned from a 18 month tour of duty in Vietnam, were guests of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Howard R. Overbey and children of Bell City after visiting in Dearborn, Mich., with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Deck. Sgt. Deck has reported to a base in Nashville, Tenn., where he will be until January, when he and his family will leave for Germany for a three-year stay with the Air Force.

Mrs. James DeLay, Mrs. Norval R. Spears, Mrs. Joe Redman, Mrs. Frank Gilles, and Mrs. Morgan English were guests of the Advance Chapter, O.E.S. Tuesday evening, when the Advance Chapter honored Mrs. English, Grand Marthe of the Order, of the state of Missouri, with a special program. Other special guest was, Mrs. Max Mickeal, Charleston, District Deputy Grand Matron of the 50th district.

Chaplain and Mrs. Eugene Gardiner and children, of Chanute Air Force Base in Illinois, left Wednesday, fter visiting his mother, Mrs. Jessie Gardiner Monday morning their baby daughter, Ruth, 18 months old had the misfortune to get burned, she pulled a cup of hot water off on her, burning her on the face and chest, the burns were not serious, but painful.

According to city officials, the weeks of May 12 to May 24 inclusive has been declared "Paint Up, Clean Up and Fix Up weeks.

The city will pick -up trash on Saturday May 24th.

All trash must be put into boxes or sacks and treelimbs tied in bundles which two men can handle and place near the property line on the Saturday morning of the pickup.

All unoperative or junked automobiles parked on the city streets for a period longer than two weeks will be declared abandoned and will be towed away and sold for junk.

REALTOR WEEK MAY 18–24

Proclamation by the MAYOR for Realtor Week

WHEREAS, the Sikeston Board of Realtors is joining with many of the other 1,550 boards of the National Association of Real Estate Boards throughout the country in observing Realtor Week, May 18-24; and

WHEREAS, the Realtors of our community continue to contribute freely of their professional skills in the successful work of civic and fraternal clubs, government commissions and agencies, and educational institutions of Sikeston; and

WHEREAS, the Realtors throughout this great country of ours have undertaken the broad Make America Better Program designed to help solve the major problems of our cities and towns; and

WHEREAS, the bulk of the progress of our community is directly attributable to the competence with which Realtors are taking part in the commercial and industrial growth of our city; and

WHEREAS, the Code of Ethics to which Realtors are pledged places them in the forefront of the responsible organizations in this country and Realtor Week is designed to acquaint the public with these high standards of professional service provided by Realtors;

NOW, THEREFORE, I Arthur Ziegenhorn, Mayor of Sikeston do hereby proclaim May 18-24 to be Realtor Week and urge my fellow citizens to join with the Sikeston Board of Realtors in its observance.

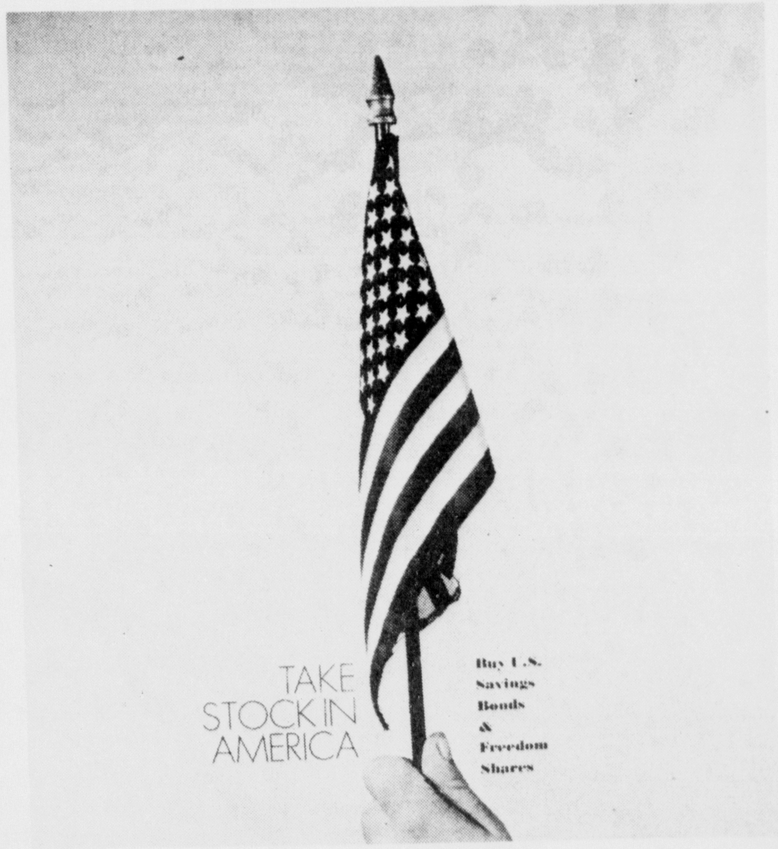

IN WITNESS THEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the city of Sikeston to be affixed this 19th day of May, 1969.

Bridge To Link Two States

(from the Commercial Appeal)

Equipment is being assembled to move into position on the Missouri and Tennessee sides of the Mississippi River so construction can begin in June on the new bridge (sketched above). The first construction will cost $7,764,193 and will include preliminary work for the main river spans. The bridge, when completed in 1972 at a total cost of 25 to 30 million dollars, will carry two 38-foot roadways. It will connect Dyersburg, Tenn., with Interstate 55 at Hayti, Mo., and will be the only crossing of the river in the 219-mile stretch from Cairo, Ill., to Memphis. Although the bridge location has been determined, the routing of approaches on both sides is still unannounced. The Missouri Highway Department has tentatively located the access road to the bridge on that side of the river but rights-of-way have not been bought and the location has not been made public. In Tennessee, two routes in Dyer County are being considered but no decision has been made public.

PUBLIC NOTICE

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF SCOTT COUNTY
BENTON, MISSOURI
CENTRAL MATERIALS CORPORATION, a Missouri Corporation, Plaintiff, vs. WILLIAM E. DUNN and DUNN, wife of William E. Dunn, or his unknown heirs, grantees, representatives, and successors if William E. Dunn be not living, or his assigns, Defendants.
ORDER OF PUBLICATION OF NOTICE
THE STATE OF MISSOURI TO DEFENDANT: William F. Dunn and Dunn, wife of William E. Dunn, or his unknown heirs, grantees, representatives, and successors if William E. Dunn be not living, or his assigns.

You are hereby notified that an action has been commenced against you in the Circuit Court of Scott County, Missouri, the object and general nature of which is the foreclosure of Oran special tax bill No. III -28 which affects the following described property:

Nineteen (19) feet of Fractional Part of Lot Eight (8), and all of Lots Nine (9) and Ten (10) Block Six (6), of C. & A. J. Matthew's Second Addition to Oran, Scott County, Missouri.

The names of all the parties to said suit are stated in the above caption hereof, and the name and address of the attorneys for the plaintiff is Spradling, Bradshaw & Drusch, 1838 Broadway, Cape Girardeau, Missouri. You are further notified that unless you file an answer or other pleading or shall otherwise appear and defend against the foregoing action within 45 days after the 5th day of May, 1969, judgment by default will be rendered against you.

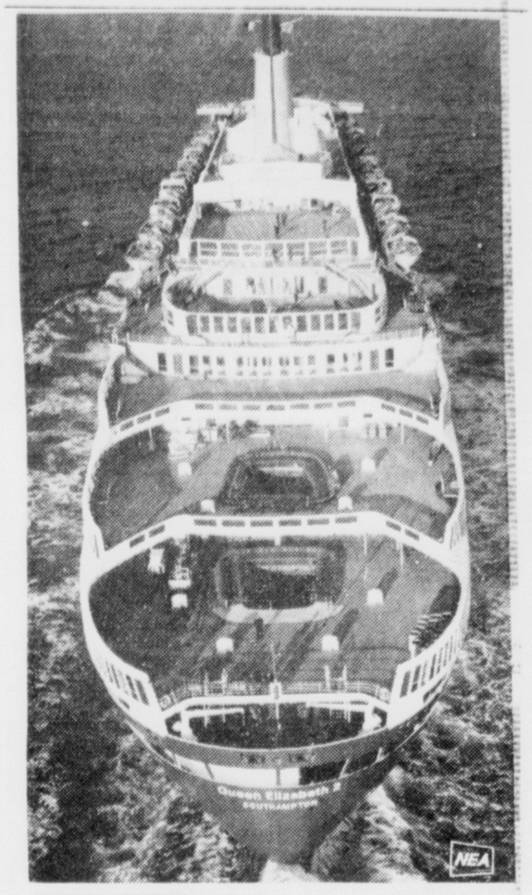

IT IS ORDERED that a copy hereof be published according to law in the Sikeston Standard, a newspaper of general circulation published in the county of Scott, State of Missouri.

A TRUE COPY FROM THE RECORD.

WITNESS my hand and the seal of the Circuit Court, this 1st day of May, 1969.

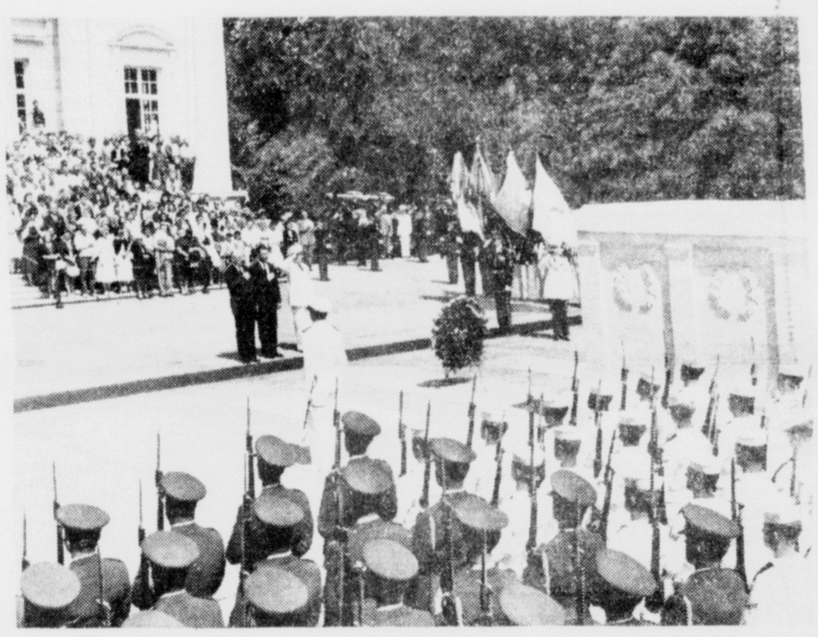

Lynn F. Ingram
Circuit Clerk

SPRING VISITOR to the United States will be the new luxury liner, Queen Elizabeth 2, which is scheduled to arrive in New York on her transatlantic maiden voyage on May 7. The 65,000-ton ship, with a passenger capacity of more than 2,000, will remain in transatlantic service between New York and England until next fall, when she will cruise the Caribbean.

'Taps' Sounds at Memorial Services

MEMORIAL DAY "TAPS" — A bugler sounds "Taps" at the Tomb of the Unknowns, Arlington National Cemetery, during Memorial Day ceremonies May 30, 1961. The wreath is from President John Kennedy. It was placed at the memorial to the dead of three wars by Sen. Richard Russell, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee. Russell, left, stands with Defense Secretary Robert McNamara and Army Maj. Gen. Charles Gailey Jr.

By ARLEEN ABRAHAMS
Associated Press Writer

It never made the Hit Parade but over the past century its plaintive notes have been heard by Americans again and again. And on May 30, when most of the country will mark the 100th official anniversary of Memorial Day, the playing of "Taps," as usual, will sound the keynote of the observance.

"Taps," that melancholy bugle call which signals both the close of a soldier's day and the end of his life, came out of the Civil War at about the same time of the first unofficial observance of a Decoration Day.

In July 1862, the Union Army of the Potomac was engaged in a series of exhausting battles near Harrison's Landing, a small Virginia town on the James River. One night, Capt. Robert Ellicombe, of the Union Army, was aroused by the moans of a wounded Confederate soldier in the no man's land separating the Union and Confederate forces. He decided to rescue the man.

Crawling cautiously, Ellicombe made his way to the wounded man, pulled him to the Union lines. But the trip was too much for that Johnny Reb. By the time Ellicombe completed his mission, he was dead.

Examining the body by the dim glow of a lantern, the captain suddenly went cold with shock — it was his own son! (Another version holds that it was his nephew.) The boy had been studying music in the South and without telling his father had enlisted.

The heartbroken father received permission to give him a military burial behind the Union lines. As a final gesture of farewell, Ellicombe had a bugler play a few bars of the handwritten music found on a piece of scrap paper in the boy's pocket. The music was the original notes for "Taps."

A few days later that piece of paper came into the possession of Gen. Daniel Butterfield, Ellicombe's commanding officer. Gen. Butterfield summoned a bugler named Oliver Morton and instructed him to arrange the notes for a new bugle call which would replace the old "Lights Out." That night "Taps" was heard for the first time as the official number heralding the close of day.

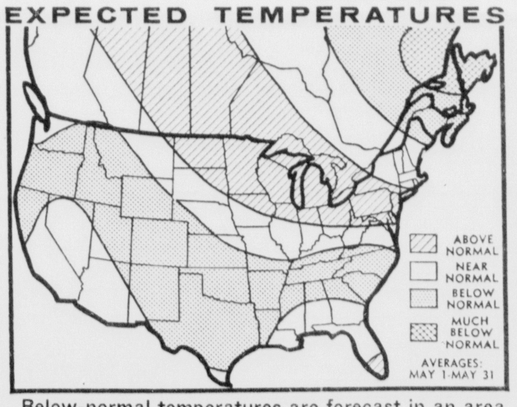

The call was quickly picked up by other units. By May 1868, when Gen. John A. Logan, commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, issued the first official proclamation setting forth May 30 as a day "for strewing with flowers the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country in the late rebellion," "Taps" was the official military bugle call.

Known as Decoration Day until 1882, Memorial Day now marks tribute paid in the United States to the dead of all its wars. Observances include military and civic parades, decorating with flowers the graves of American servicemen in foreign cemeteries, water services for those who died at sea and ceremonies at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery. Fittingly, these official observances close with the playing of "Taps."

BUILDING FOR DEAD

KYOTO (AP) — Shortage in burial land has brought about a 30-story ferro-concrete building in Kyoto, West Japan, purely to house the dead.

The Nishi-Honganji Temple constructed the building, which is complete with a hall for worship.

The Japanese practice is to cremate their dead and have the ashes either enshrined at home or buried in a family plot.

Ashes of the dead are contained in specially made urns placed in cabinet-size repositories.

Prices of a repository range from 300,000 yen (about $833) to 1,000,000 yen (about $2,777).

BORGER, Tex. (AP) — An unidentified Borger man correctly predicted in mid-March that striking employes of Phillips Petroleum Co. would be back on the job one midnight.

He said he knew the strike was over when he was in a grocery store and watched wives of workmen on the midnight shift buying supplies for their husband's sandwiches.

Adams Receives Vietnam Medal

VALDOSTA, Ga. - Sergeant William L. Adams (right), son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Adams of R.R. 1, Bell City, Mo., receives the U.S. Air Force Commendation Medal at Moody AFB, Ga., for meritorious service in Vietnam. Sergeant Adams distinguished himself as a mason at Tan Son Nhut Air Base. He was cited for his outstanding professional skill and initiative. The sergeant is now at Moody in a unit of the Air Training Command. A 1964 graduate of Scott County Central High School, Morley, Mo., he attended Southeast Missouri State College. First Lieutenant Thomas G. Goodwin, commander of the 3550th Air Base Group, makes the presentation.

Sun Offers New Flights

Sun Airlines will offer improved service to Sikeston effective May 15th, according to information released today by C. L. Denison, Vice President in Charge of Sales and Passenger Relations for the Memphis based airline.

"With the delivery of our new 18 paggenger DeHavilland Turbo Prop planes", Denison stated, "we are able to "beef up" our flights on our most used routes. This means that not only are more flights available but that more seats are available on each of the legs flown by DeHavilland planes."

"Wherever possible", Denison said, "we are trying to give Sun Airline customers out-in-the-morning . . . . home - the - same - evening service. This, combined with an eye on the service offered by the trunk carriers to make better connections possible, dictates departure times in most cities."

Denison pointed out the fact that passengers continuing on beyond Sun Airline's five-state, seventeen-city service area could be ticketed through on a single ticket basis to their ultimate destinations through Sun's interline agreements with the nation's major trunk carriers.

All of Sun Airline's reservations are handled through a central reservations office in Memphis and Denison said passengers could call 800-238-5332, a toll free call from Sikeston for immediate confirmation.

Effective May 15th, Sun Airlines will offer nonstop service to Memphis; three direct flights daily to Lambert Field in St. Louis in addition to flights to Cape Girardeau on a Monday through Friday basis. Added to the new Sun Airlines schedule is service to Lake of the Ozarks during the vacation season.

If You Were the Judge

Fire Levels House; Men Argue, Owner Sues City

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

When Horace's house caught fire, he watched hopefully as firemen from nearby Sparkville quickly appeared. Losing no time, they laid out their equipment and prepared to do battle with the flames. The only battling they did, however, was with the firemen from Hopskotch who arrived shortly thereafter.

With chips as well as fire-axes on their shoulders, the smoke eaters from Hopskotch insisted that it was up to them to put out Horace's fire, since they claimed, and rightly so, that Horace's house was in Hopskotch and not in Sparksville.

By the time the heated argument ended, Horace's house had burned to the ground. Homeless, Horace sued the city of Hopskotch for its loss.

"If its firemen had stuck to fighting fires instead of other firemen," he fumed, "my house would be standing today. They were negligent in letting it burn to the ground."

"Arguments will happen," retorted the city's attorney, but that's no basis for holding Hopskotch responsible for the destruction of Horace's house. Under the law, it's well established that a city cannot be held responsible for the destruction of property due to its negligent failure to put out a fire. Therefore, Horace's complaint must be dismissed!"

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you dismiss Horace's complaint

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that while Hopskotch might not be responsible for negligently failing to extinguish Horace's fire, it could be held responsible for wrongfully preventing the Sparkville firemen from putting out the blaze.

BUILDING EXPANDS

TOKYO (AP) — The massive Diet (parliament) building, symbol of government authority, has become too small to house the various committees and subcommittees of its upper and lower houses.

The government is spending $6,000,000 to build two four-story buildings on both sides of the Diet to house committees and subcommittees.

Delmo Housing Group Hears Speech on Testing of Values

By H. H. TOWNSEND JR.

LILBOURN — Speaking at the annual Delmo Housing Corporation dinner at South Lilbourn Saturday night, the Rev. Father Wallace G. Ellinger, pastor of the Immaculate Conception Church, New Madrid, said, "A test of our values can be asked like this: What is most important to me? What is the right thing to do? What will help the greater number of people? Two other questions help distinguish our values. Can I get help here? Can I help here?

"The first question, can I get help here, is not a bad question. All people need help in various areas of their lives. Today the big business man needs the help and cooperation of many to make his enterprise go -- and he doesn't mind asking the help of others, be it the regular working people, the agencies of government, the voters or anyone whose aid he thinks will be useful.

"The so-called 'big people' are able to ask help more effectively than the disorganized and often disheartened people on the other end of our economic rat-race. But to ask help when it is needed is not a note of weakness, but of wisdom.

"Nevertheless, the other question must really be in the heart and mind of all, regardless of their standing in society, namely, can I help here? No matter how little of the world's goods a person has, they must always seek to keep an attitude that says how can I help? I want to help.

"It seems to me that only he individual can determine what he values most in life -- what his priorities will be with his limited amount of time and energy and other resources. When a man asks what is most important to me, he needs to be sure he is considering all of his needs, and really, one of his most important needs is to try to help the community in general.

"Our friend, Dear Abby, recently said the same thing when she answered one letter with this: When the chips are down, each one of us must decide for himself what is worth how much.

"Yes, it is true, as I indicated at the beginning -- every man is a potential adversary. But the man who is your potential adversary does not have to become one. If we all strive sincerely always to search out what people's words or actions really mean we'll have come a long way. If we, at the same time, seek to provide ourselves with a set of values worthy of a child of God, we'll certainly function a lot higher than just doing what comes naturally.

"If it be true that every man is a potential adversary, it is more true (if such a phrase be possible) that every potential adversary is really a potential friend and supporter."

An estimated 150 persons attended the dinner meeting.

Presiding was George T. Guernsey III, president of the corporation. He stated that 1968 had been a year of progress for the charitable and educational organization.

Two guests from other countries were A. Pamekas of Indonesia, and Olu Caulcrick of Nigeria.

Pamekas, who is on an eight months special tour for the United Nations, Department of Social Affairs, until August, is a graduate of the University of Amsterdam, majoring in social work.

Mrs. Caulcrick will complete her second year of social studies at Washington University, St. Louis, in June.

Reports were heard from the Delmo Villages of Homestown, North Wardell, East Prairie, Gobler, Wilson City, Morehouse, Kennett, North Lilbourn, South Lilbourn and Circle City.

Headstart reports were given from North Lilbourn and Morehouse.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, May 19, the 139th day of 1969. There are 226 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1536, the second queen of England's King Henry VIII, Anne Boleyn, was beheaded in London.

On this date:

In 1795, the Baltimore philanthropist, John Hopkins, was born.

In 1876, a centennial exposition opened in Philadelphia.

In 1941, during World War II, Italian troops surrendered to the British in the mountains of northern Ethiopia.

In 1942, the Congressional Medal of Honor was conferred upon Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle for leading the first air attack against Tokyo in the Pacific war.

In 1943, Britain's Prime Minister Winston Churchill addressed the U.S. Congress and pledged his nation's full support in the war against Japan.

In 1964, the U.S. State Department disclosed that 40 secret microphones had been found hidden in the U.S. embassy in Moscow.

Ten years ago: An East-West foreign ministers meeting in Geneva was in disagreement over the future of Berlin.

Five years ago: The slayer of Lee H. Oswald, Jack L. Ruby, was being treated for mental illness in his prison cell in Dallas.

One year ago: A wave of strikes in France had all but paralyzed the nation.

Apollo Crewmen Get Along Well Despite Individual Differences

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 10's crewmates are three different types from different backgrounds who mesh into a finely tuned team.

Thomas P. Stafford, a bald Air Force colonel with a sleepy grin and slow speech, is the commander.

John W. Young, the command module pilot, is a short, slender quiet-spoken Navy commander with a dry wit.

And the lunar module pilot is Eugene A. Cernan, a graying 35-year-old who talks rapidly and well and enjoys spending his off time planting, pruning and picking flowers.

"Because we're different types of personalities is probably why we get along so well," says Cernan. "We're not three one-man astronauts...and we're not two guys and one guy, or one guy and two guys. We're three guys that have a great deal of confidence in each other."

The three will fly a mission designed to solve some mysteries about the moon and clear the way for a landing there in July.

Their flight will be the first time America has sent into space three men who've all been there before.

Stafford was the pilot on Gemini 6 and the commander on Gemini 9.

Young was pilot on Gemini 3 and commanded Gemini 10.

Cernan was the pilot on Stafford's Gemini 9 flight.

The trio will fly an orbit of the moon. Then Cernan and Stafford, in a lunar module, will dip down to within nine mile of the lunar surface, while Young orbits the mother Apollo vehicle.

Having to stop at nine miles has been a disappointment for the three.

They were originally assigned to take along lunar module five, the spacecraft designed as the first lunar lander. But a change in mission sequence moved the landing honors to Apollo 11. Apollo 10 is designed as a dress rehearsal for the first lunar touchdown.

This was not the first space spectacular snatching from Stafford by changes in timing.

He was assigned to be America's first space-walker on Gemini 6. But the space stroll scheduled was advanced and the honor went to Edward White on Gemini 4 instead.

Even the triumphs of Stafford's space flights have included frustration.

He and Walter M. Schirra were scheduled to make the first rendezvous and docking in space on Gemini 6, but the target spacecraft blew up after launch. They had to settle for the first space meeting of two manned craft. They rendezvoused with Gemini 7.

Stafford's second flight also called for a space docking, but the cover on the docking target vehicle failed to fully eject, blocking the link up.

Stafford admitted later that for an instant he had an impulse to ram the jammed jaws of the docking cover, which he said looked like "an angry alligator."

The six-foot space pilot now laughs at what some call the"Stafford jinx."

"When I flew with Wally on my first flight, I was sure it was Wally that was the jinx," Stafford said recently. "Then on Gemini 9, I thought it was probably Gene. But I finally realized maybe I was the Joe Blftspk of the Gemini program."

"We've got a lot of things to worry about, but I don't reckon that's one of them," says Young of the "jinx."

Stafford was born and grew up in Weatherford, a small town in west-central Oklahoma.

He went to the U.S. Naval Academy, graduated 50th of 783 in 1952 and took his commission in the Air Force.

Stafford flew fighters in the United States and Germany and was sent to test pilot's school. Before he left the school, he was teaching classes and had co-authored two books still used as basic flight manuals.

He applied for acceptance in both the Harvard Business School and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration astronaut program.

He had been at Harvard three days and was still working on his first homework assignment when NASA called. The day was Sept. 17, 1962, Stafford's 32nd birthday.

Stafford married a Weatherford girl, the former Faye L. Shoemaker. Mrs. Stafford said her husband dated her oldest sister first, but then started helping her on math homework when he came over, instead of taking out the sister. They were married after he was graduated from the academy.

To John Young, even the long hours of training for a flight are "a heck of a lot of fun."

The 38-year-old Navy commander is the least talkative of the Apollo 10 trio, but the most apt to blurt out some surprise humor.

Young was the pilot on the first Gemini flight, the Gemini 3 mission commanded by Virgil I. Grissom.

The five-foot-nine pilot created what has become a favorite story in the space community.

On the day Gemini 3 was to be launched, Young carried on board a corned beef sandwich, a snack strictly forbidden in the weightlessness of space. Grissom ate it in orbit so the bread crumbs wouldn't float around the capsule.

After landing in Gemini 3 in the Atlantic and almost getting seasick, Young made the observation since quoted by other astronauts: "It's a wonderful spacecraft, but it's not much of a boat."

Young was born in San Francisco and moved to Orlando, Fla. at an early age. He was a straight "A" student in high school and an outstanding athlete in football and track.

His father, a retired officer in the Seabees, once said that Young as a boy "drew pictures of airplanes and rockets all the time."

Young earned a degree in aeronautical engineering at Georgia Tech and took a commission in the Navy. He became a crack fighter pilot and later a test pilot. In 1962, Young set time-to-climb records in a Navy F4B jet.

Six months later, NASA named him an astronaut.

Young frequently brings his son, John, to the office when he works at the Manned Spacecraft Center on weekends.

"He's a big rocket fan," says Young of his 10-year-old son. "He's got his own rockets and shoots them off all over. Probably knows a lot more about them than I do."

Young is married to the former Barbara V. White of Savannah, Ga. They also have a daughter, Sandy, 12.

Cernan, an outgoing 35-year-old Chicago native, is a precise and thorough pilot and engineer at work, but a "down to earth guy" who enjoys gardening and home projects during his days off, according to his wife.

Mrs. Cernan says her husband enjoys getting into some old clothes and working in the yard at their fashionable home near the space center.

Cernan received an electrical engineering degree from Purdue and became a Navy officer through the school's Naval ROTC program.

He went to flight school and later served on attack squadrons at Miramar, Calif.

He was named an astronaut in 1963, with the third group of spacemen selected by NASA. Cernan, now a Navy commander, was pilot on Stafford's Gemini 9 flight and spent two and one-half hours walking in space.

Mrs. Cernan is the former Barbara J. Atchley of Houston, a pretty former airline stewardess. Cernan overheard her name while buying an airline ticket, traced her telephone number, talked her into dating him and married her after a two-year courtship.

She shares his interest in flying and has taken pilot's lessons.

They have a daughter, Teresa Dawn, 5.

Cernan explains to his wife, he said, every phase of his missions. This, he said, helps relieve some of the fear for her.

"She's aware of what's happening, and, as a result, not necessarily scared or apprehensive," he said. "She understands what you're doing and isn't worried that every minute something's going wrong."

Army Mulls New Reserve Backup Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army staff is studying a plan that would tie some 650,000 National Guardsmen and Reservists more closely to emergency war plans.

This is the fourth effort since 1962 to improve the readiness of guard-reserve backup forces. Planners are shooting for deployment of some units overseas four weeks after they are mobilized.

The new proposal would probably mean the end of former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's "Selected Reserve Force"—137,000 men in units in theory prepared to deploy eight weeks after callup.

However, in the limited guard-reserve mobilization last year, the first of 43 units activated did not reach Vietnam until 15 weeks after callup. That unit was a dental detachment.

The new proposal takes on added importance because the Nixon administration is looking ahead to a possible million-man reduction in regular forces over a three-year period after Vietnam.

Unlike past moves, the new proposal does not involve eliminating any more guard or reserve units. About 3,500 surplus or obsolete outfits were culled out of the guard-reserve structure in a series of reorganizations.

Pentagon sources said the new plan ties specific Guard and Reserve units to specific war plans, and changes the composition of the backup forces as national contingency plans change.

All guard and reserve units would be assigned missions which would involve their possible deployment with four, eight, 12, 16, or more weeks post-mobilization active duty training.

Pentagon planning calls for 395,000 National Guard and 256,000 reserve troops next year.

Under the McNamara plan, units were designated for special priority in equipment and extra training.

Because of Vietnam, the selected Reserve Force has only about 50 per cent of the equipment it was supposed to receive. The rest went instead to new regular Army units formed during the war buildup.

Because of the Vietnam budget pinch extra readiness drills were ended nearly a year ago.

Rogers Says Allies Working for Peace

BANGKOK, (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers, arriving in Bangkok from Saigon, said today that the United States and its allies are working diligently for early peace in Vietnam.

"We all hope that the need for military action will soon be ended," he said in an airport statement.

Rogers is here to attend a meeting of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) Tuesday and Wednesday.

He was met by Thailand's Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman and was given the traditional garland of sweet smelling jasmine flowers as a sign of welcome.

Rogers told Thanat that the United States is a member of both the Atlantic and Pacific communities.

"We do not place priorities on our relationships with Europe or Asia," he said.

He apparently intended this to reassure the Asian allies that in seeking peace in Vietnam, the United States does not intend to turn its back on Asia.

During his four-day visit to Vietnam, Rogers sought to assure the government of President Nguyen Van Thieu that the Nixon administration does not plan to abandon the war or bargain away South Vietnam's right of self determination.

But after a five-hour meeting with Rogers, Thieu said the next day that he wanted to meet with President Nixon because he felt much more coordination was needed between his government and the United States.

Some South Vietnamese are worried that Nixon in his intensive efforts to secure peace may come under pressure in the United States to make concessions to the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front. Premier Tran Van Huong told the Associated Press in an interview that "the Americans are too anxious to get peace."

South Vietnam's Foreign Minister Tran Chanh Thanh said in Bangkok today that Thieu wants to meet with Nixon to discuss postwar problems and not because there are any basic policy differences between Washington and Saigon.

While South Vietnam is in basic agreement with the Nixon proposals, some questions have been raised about his call for elections and also his suggestion that South Vietnam may decide to become neutral after the war. Thieu tends to equate neutralism with Communism.

Legislators Have Enacted Only 15 Bills

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Missouri's 1969 legislature came back to work today with a record of having enacted 15 new laws in the first three-quarters of its six-month session.

All the big questions, such as financing the state services in the coming fiscal year and how to pay for them, still face the two houses. But such major problems normally are solved, if at all, at the end of a session.

Among bills enacted so far are:

A $1.5 million emergency bill for money-short state agencies.

Authority for school principals or superintendents to suspend obstreperous students for up to 10 days without a hearing before the school board.

Provision of on-the-job training opportunities for inmates of the state training schools at Boonville and Chillicothe.

A model bill that would permit transplantation of human organs and set up a procedure to make sure they are legal.

Provide four more legal Monday holidays by setting that day for recognition of Washington's Birthday, Decoration Day, Columbus Day and Veterans' Day.

Let podiatrists (foot doctors) use drugs in the practice of their profession.

Permit the sale of milk in one-third quart containers.

A special committee session has been scheduled for tonight on what to do to modernize the old presidential electoral college system or scrap it for a popular vote idea.

Krist Goes On Trial for Coed Kidnap

DECATUR, Ga. (AP)—Bearded, taciturn Gary Steven Krist went on trial today on a charge of kidnaping coed Barbara Jane Mackle, who was buried alive whole her abductors collected $500,000 ransom last December.

Krist, 24, a convicted car thief and prison escapee, was brought to the DeKalb County Courthouse in handcuffs. His black beard and black suit starkly contrasted with his prison pallor.

Conviction would mean the death penalty or life imprisonment.

Krist, who once escaped a California prison, is charge with Ruth Eisenmann-Schier, 26, Honduras-born biologist, in the Dec. 17 abduction of the Emory University coed.

Miss Schier is to go on trial June 16.

The courthouse is not far from the motel where the 20-year-old student was taken from a sickbed, then buried alive in a plywood crypt under 18 inches of clay while a $500,000 ransom was negotiated with her father.

Krist has spent the last three weeks in a hospital undergoing psychiatric examination. He was removed from the DeKalb County jail April 22 after collapsing from a 27-day hunger strike.

Miss Mackle spent 83 hours buried below the ground in a coffin-like box equipped with air pipes, a fan, a battery-powered light and a small quantity of food and water.

Her father, Robert F. Mackle, a Coral Gables, Fla., land developer paid the ransom for information that led FBI agents to her prison.

Krist was captured on alligator-infested Hog Island on Florida's Gulf coast soon after the ransom payoff, and $400,000 of the money was with him, the FBI said.
